WORLD WATCHES HITLER'S MOVES AFTER BIG VOTE

No Clemency For Bruno Hauptmann

LAST PLEA OF PRISONER IS TURNED DOWN

New Jersey Court of Pardons Decided Against Clemency for Man Convicted of Killing Lindbergh Baby; Execution Set for Tomorrow Evening

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., March 30.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's second clemency plea was denied by the New Jersey Court of Pardons today.

Neither of the lawyers, C. Lloyd Fisher and Frederick A. Pope, would comment on what had taken place behind the locked doors. They said the court had begun its deliberations as soon as the arguments were concluded.

Today's battle of lawyers, it was reported, centred largely around the Lindbergh kidnap ladder, one of the most disputed pieces of evidence at the trial, as well as around the ransom money.

A representative of the New Jersey state police was called before the court when it had been in session about two and a half hours. He brought with him the Flemington trial testimony.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

While interest was centred on the court session, unconfirmed rumors spread through Trenton that another suspect in the Lindbergh kidnapping had been arrested and might be produced before the time of Hauptmann's execution tomorrow evening. Authorities said they knew nothing about such an arrest.

The unsubstantiated story was that the production of the prisoner might make it necessary for the court of pardons to meet again tomorrow.

The court, in a fifty-word announcement, made no reference to a stay of execution.

SLIM HOPE

The denial of clemency on the eve of Hauptmann's execution left virtually the only slim hope for him to escape the electric chair the possibility that Governor Harold G. Hoffman might exercise a self-admitted doubtful power of reprieve.

He has said repeatedly, however, that he had no intention of granting another reprieve.

Dionne Parents To Appear In Movie

Canadian Press

Callander, Ont., March 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of Ontario's famous quintuplets, will follow their five twenty-two-months-old daughters into moving pictures, it was announced today.

Details of a contract signed with Universal Studio were not revealed, but an announcement from Hollywood a week ago stated the parents and their five older children would appear in pictures.

Charles Rogers of Universal Studio announced in Hollywood last Wednesday the Dionne family had been signed for a picture title "Where Are My Children?" Mr. Dionne later denied he and his wife had signed a contract although he said negotiations for appearance of himself, his wife and their five older children in pictures had begun.

MOUNT VESUVIUS STAGES SPECTACLE

Naples, Italy, March 30.—Mount Vesuvius went on one of its periodical shows yesterday, opening a new mouth within its crater with rumbling spurts of flame and sparks. The village of Terzigio, nearest the new eruption, is not endangered.

Decks Cleared For Health Bill

Most Legislation Finished Except Insurance Measure; May Prorogue Wednesday

With the exception of the health insurance bill and some fifty proposed amendments, the naturopathic physicians' bill, an amendment to the savings and loan association act, and ten resolutions of private members, the B.C. Legislature cleared away its whole order paper this morning.

The stage was set for resumption this afternoon of the battle in committee over the health bill. This argument is expected to last until late tomorrow. Prorogation may come Wednesday.

Among the changes in bills decided this morning was one extending the provisions of the Barbers' Act to unorganized districts of the people as well as organized district. This was accepted on the motion of R. R. Burns, Liberal, Rossland-Trail.

With Fuehrer Endorsed By 99 Per Cent of Voters French Voice Uneasiness

At Polls Yesterday 44,411,911 Germans Approved Hitler's Rhineland Course and 543,026 Indicated Opposition; Under Such Unprecedented Conditions Dictator May Strike Out on New Paths, Says Paris Matin

Statement May Be Made Tomorrow

Associated Press

Berlin, March 30.—Germany's endorsement of Adolf Hitler's remilitarization of the Rhineland mounted to 99 per cent today while Der Fuehrer turned to drafting of new proposals to the other Locorno powers which political sources intimated would "astound the world."

The Nazi propaganda machine, moving with speed and precision, swung virtually the entire German nation behind Hitler in yesterday's election, normally to select a new Reichstag but actually to approve his violation of the Versailles Treaty and the Locarno Pact.

An official tabulation of the returns, still incomplete, raised Hitler's percentage from 98.79 to 99 per cent of the votes cast—the greatest endorsement ever given in any plebiscite.

OPPOSITION IS 543,026

Of the 44,954,937 ballots, 44 441,911 were marked clearly with a cross in the circle opposite the name of Hitler, officials announced. On the remaining 543,026 ballots, the electors either wrote "no" or otherwise made their vote "invalid."

In the German view, the fact there was no chance to vote in opposition, but only to take the Nazi Party list or leave it, did not detract from the overwhelming Nazi triumph.

Der Fuehrer now felt, informed sources said, that whatever he might demand from the other powers he would demand as the dictator, but as the servant of 67,000,000 Germans who commanded him not to yield one inch of German territory, nor one bit of German rights.

FIRM ATTITUDE

Hitler, it was believed, would be more intransigeant than ever now in his dealings with the other nations.

There was no intimation, however, of the exact contents of his counter-proposals to the Locarno powers.

(Turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

MAY ADDRESS NEW REICHSTAG

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is shown, above, as he appeared recently in Karlsruhe. He may make public his reply to the Locarno Powers this week or he may wait long enough to summon the new Reichstag elected yesterday and give his reply in an address to that body.

Actions Abroad Like Those at Home

Canadian Press from Havas

Paris, March 30.—Uneasiness was displayed in French newspapers today in comment on the German plebiscite yesterday which gave Chancellor Hitler the endorsement of 99 per cent of the voters.

"Given unprecedented power," Le Matin said, "Hitler will henceforth assume unprecedented responsibilities in the eyes of his people and the world."

Pertinax, foreign expert of L'Echo de Paris, said:

"How are we to imagine otherwise than that Hitler will carry on abroad along the same plan as at home?"

FRANCE'S LIMITATIONS

Declaring an emergency would find France immediately capable only of defending her own frontiers, Andre Pironneau, military expert for L'Echo de Paris, feared the French would be powerless to go to Austria's aid in case of Nazi aggression.

"Yesterday Germany suddenly brought her army across the Rhine without a single military countermove being made to prevent her," Pironneau stated.

"Tomorrow a massed attack could beat against Vienna, Praha, Liege, Luxembourg or Strassbourg in exactly the same conditions.

Canadian Press from Havas

Paris, March 30.—Encouraged by his triumph at the plebiscite polls yesterday, Chancellor Hitler will ask the major European powers to nullify the Versailles and Locarno treaties.

STATEMENT ON LOAN COUNCIL

Province's Position Not Decided, Declares Premier Pattullo

The position of the B.C. Government on the federal government's loan council plan has not been announced and therefore cannot properly be the subject of newspaper comment, Premier Pattullo inferred in the Legislature this morning when he criticized an editorial in The Vancouver Province as "misleading, untrue, false and deliberately mischievous, not printed in the interests of the welfare of British Columbia."

The editorial suggested that Premier Pattullo had taken the same stand as Premier Aberhart of Alberta that he could not consent to relinquish autonomy in provincial finances.

"As a matter of fact the province does not know what my position is and no member of this House knows. We have had correspondence on the subject with the Ottawa authorities which it would not be wise to divulge at this stage," Premier Pattullo said.

SOCIAL CREDIT UNWISE

Referring to the attempt in the editorial to link him with Premier Aberhart, Mr. Pattullo said: "Mr. Aberhart has found himself in the position that Alberta has certain obligations for which he could not accept responsibility . . . he was not responsible for these obligations. Nevertheless he formed what I think was a very unwise policy of so-called Social Credit. I am not in sympathy to any degree with chimerical and foolish ideas, although Mr. Aberhart is a man of very considerable ability. Sometimes wise men do foolish things."

The Premier said: "Never in my twenty years of experience have we faced a more difficult situation. What conclusion we shall come to I don't know, and I supposed even that remark will be misconstrued. The federal government does not know either, but we both will know when the conclusion has been reached."

Life Sentences Given Two Men At Hull, Quebec

J. Rochon and E. Lajoie Given Heavy Penalties; Four Other Sentences For Slaying of A. Nadeau Run From 25 to 10 Years

Canadian Press

Hull, Que., March 30.—Sentences ranging from life imprisonment down to ten years' imprisonment were imposed today by Mr. Justice Lucien Cannon on six men convicted of manslaughter in connection with the holdup slaying last December of Armand Nadeau, eighteen-year-old bank clerk.

The sentences were pronounced as follows:

Joseph Rochon, thirty-six, Ottawa, life imprisonment.

Edmond Lajoie, forty-three, Montreal, life imprisonment.

Paul Lafleur, twenty-nine, Hull, twenty years.

Jean O. Beausoleil, twenty-three, Hull, ten years.

The prisoners were removed to their cells and then returned to the Bordeaux jail at Montreal in a police van under heavy guard. From Bordeaux they will be transferred to the penitentiary.

C.C.F. Anti-war Stand Is Stated

Canadian Press

Montreal, March 30.—Should Canada become involved in war, there should be conscription of wealth rather than conscription of youth, J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, said here yesterday. Mr. Woodsworth was a speaker at a symposium on the possible occurrences of the next decade.

The C.C.F., he said, was opposed to Canadian participation in any war, but there would be no progress as long as Canadians bowed and scraped to wealth.

The parliamentary institutions of today did not resemble real democracy, Mr. Woodsworth said. There was an element of unreality in the House at Ottawa, and it was out of line with the real needs of the people. There was too much individualism rampant in the land, he said. The greatest citizen was not the man able to grab the most, but the one who could give the greatest service to his country.

VANDERBILT GIRL STAYS WITH AUNT

Washington, March 30 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt lost today in the Supreme Court in her effort to obtain custody of her wealthy twelve-year-old child, Gloria.

The tribunal refused to review a decree of New York courts awarding chief custody of the young heiress to her aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney.

Sensational testimony was received during the two-month hearing before the New York Supreme Court. It became so spicy at times that the public was excluded.

French Foreign Minister Voices Series of Pointed Questions

Canadian Press from Havas

Vezelay, France, March 30.—Chancellor Hitler, flushed with the vehement endorsement by German voters of his policies, today was confronted by a series of searching questions by Foreign Minister Flandin concerning the underlying principles and practical aspects of his peace proposals.

The French Foreign Minister spoke at a meeting of his constituents in this ancient town in the Yonne department in east central France, but his remarks were in effect a reply to the plebiscite campaign speeches of Chancellor Hitler.

London, March 30. — Prime Minister Baldwin assured the House of Commons today the British general staff would not be allowed to involve the government in any commitments in the forthcoming consultations with the French and Belgian army commands concerning mutual defence against possible German aggression.

Coldest On Record; More Frost Tonight

Victoria Has Low Temperature of 27 Degrees; Little Damage to Crops on Island; Another Cold Night in Prospect

Another sharp frost this evening is predicted by F. Napier Denison, superintendent of the Dominion meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights. His forecast for today and tomorrow is "fine and cold."

The low point in the cold snap was reached at 5 o'clock this morning when the official thermometer at the observatory registered 27 degrees.

This is the lowest temperature Victoria has ever experienced on March 30. Records at the observatory go back to 1875.

"The barometer is high over the entire northern part of the continent," Mr. Denison said. "The one redeeming feature is that temperatures are rising in Alaska which means that we may expect warmer days soon."

LITTLE DAMAGE

Despite five to six degrees of frost at such a late date, a survey of farming areas close to the city indicated that the latest cold snap had done little damage.

Though the winter had been one of the severest on record, Captain E. Livesay, manager of the Saanich Fruitgrowers' Association, largest co-operative on the island, estimated that the strawberry crop would only

SUGGESTED NOW HITLER MARRY

Associated Press

London, March 30.—The suggestion that Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, try to induce Reichsfuehrer Hitler to marry was made in the House of Commons today.

While Mr. Eden was explaining his conversation with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German special ambassador, W. Thorne, Labor Party member, interrupted with:

"May I ask whether he thinks he will be able to persuade Herr Hitler to get married to keep him well balanced?"

Mr. Eden did not reply.

SWISS BUILDING UP DEFENCES

Canadian Press from Havas

Berne, March 30. — Switzerland will soon build forty military airplanes for defence purposes on her frontiers, the Federal Council announced today. The cost will be financed by a special air fund of 5,100,000 francs (approximately $1,667,760).

Military expenditures for the year will total 235,000,000 francs, according to official estimates.

Three Rivers, Que., March 30.—Explanation of the various elements entering into the financial structure of the Wabasso Cotton Company Limited engaged the attention of the Turgeon Commission today. On Saturday the federal royal commission sat until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. William J. Whitehead, managing director and son of the president, occupied the spotlight. J. C. McRuer, K.C., Toronto, commission counsel, conducted the examination.

LATE SEEDING IS FORESEEN

Unsettled Weather in Spring Wheat Belt of Canada and U.S. Indicates Tardy Start at Growth

Canadian Press

Toronto, March 30.—Unsettled weather conditions throughout the spring wheat belt of this continent give indications planting will be later than usual, according to a survey by the Bank of Commerce, issued today. U.S. spring wheat acreage is expected to be above the average.

Winter wheat prospects in the United States suggest fairly heavy abandonment. There has been no relief from drought, and heavy dust storms in the important southwest section of the winter wheat belt, including practically all of western Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Kansas, most important of United States wheat-growing states, has a poor plant in the section, and is progressively worse from the central area to the western border.

Preparations are being made for spring planting in Russia on a planned acreage of 60,500,000. Together with reported seedings of winter wheat, they make a total of over 95,000,000 acres of wheat, compared with less than 90,000,000 acres for 1935. First estimate of the new Indian crop at 356,000,000 bushels, is slightly less than last year's yield.

More Clashes On Mongolia Border

While Mongolian Government Awaits Manchukuan Reply to Demand Raids End, News of Renewed Fighting Comes

Associated Press

Moscow, March 30.—A peremptory Mongolian demand on Manchukuo for a cessation of Far Eastern frontier raids, Soviet advices said today, was followed by two new encounters, both arising from attacks by Japanese-Manchukuan troops on Mongol border posts.

Soviet dispatches said the attacks were sprung simultaneously against posts at Adik-Dollon and Bulun-Dersu, the alleged invaders being driven back into Manchukuo after vigorous fighting in which the Japanese-Manchukuans lost a number of killed and wounded.

The Outer Mongolian government, reinforced by conclusion of its mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia, dispatched a note to the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchukuo before the latest incident was reported, declaring its readiness to resist any invasion.

NO ANSWER YET

An absence of any further advices from Urga, capital of the Outer Mongolian People's Republic, indicated the note to Manchukuo had thus far gone unanswered.

To the contrary, Soviet press reports said, one Japanese-Manchukuan force, comprising seven truckloads of troops and an automobile bearing officers, launched an attack yesterday on Adik-Dollon, twenty-eight miles south of the Mongolian border.

Another force, these advices said, moved at the same time on Bulun-Derju, thirty miles northeast of Adik-Dollon and five miles within Mongolian territory. That force was described as filling two trucks.

Soviet dispatches said arrival of reinforcements enabled the Mongolian border forces to repulse the attack.

Much of the testimony had to do with the comparison between salaries paid to the Wabasso executives and the employees' wages. A tabulation disclosed the following situation:

Year	Wages	Salaries
1931	$1,106,000	$346,000
1932	1,036,000	298,000
1933	992,000	280,000
1934	1,160,000	345,000

BUSINESS SWING

Asked why the ratio between salaries and wages should show the former increasing through the years since 1932, Mr. Whitehead replied that as the company's business increased, so also did its clerical staff—out of proportion to the volume of business done. Wages had their reflection in low production, but salaries went on irrespective of whether production increased or not. As the quality of cloth became coarser, so did the payroll become smaller, but salaries had to continue nevertheless.

"As you have progressed, from 1928 to 1935," said Mr. McRuer, "the protection afforded this industry seems to have been in favor of the machines and the salaried employees and not of the working men."

The witness replied that without the protection afforded and the mechanization of the trade there would be no cotton industry at all.

"I think the life of this industry is due to the high protection it got," commented counsel. "Do you think that is high enough now?"

"So far as the tariff is concerned, it is not protection we complain of," said Mr. Whitehead, "but dumping." The present rates were adequate provided dumping, chiefly from the United Kingdom, was stopped. The anti-dumping provisions of the Customs Act were not applied strictly against British goods, the witness told Mr. Justice Turgeon.

"How do you know?" asked the commissioner.

Mr. Whitehead replied that on two occasions his company had drawn the attention of the customs department to instances of dumping. He cited details. On each occasion an inquiry had been assured, but no report had been received.

PLANT REOPENS

St. Hyacinthe, Que., March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Consolidated Silk Mills Limited of this city, closed since Friday as a result of a strike among employees, reopened today. A wage increase of 15 per cent has been granted employees, officials said.

Trouble started Thursday when it was reported 300 employees of the plant had gone on strike as a result of wage cuts enforced some time ago when the company was obliged to manufacture a new line of goods because of Japanese silk competition. Officials closed the plant Friday.

SIX-WEEK TRIAL

The sentences came as a climax of a trial which had lasted six weeks.

Nadeau was killed when he was en route with Lafleur, bank accountant, from the Hull branch of the Banque Provinciale du Canada to the clearing house in Ottawa with $16,610. Nathan Boverman, alias Ted Martin, former Springfield, Mass., butcher, was killed in Montreal by police when he allegedly resisted arrest.

TRIALS TO COME

The sentencing of the sextette, however, does not close the case. Julien "Chappy" Chapdelaine, Rochon's neighbor, Jean Laviolette of Ottawa and Armand Venne of Montreal, are charged with being accessories and Ernest Colon, alias Journet of Montreal, Georges Potvin of Hull and Lorenzo "Zozo" Tellier of Hull, are charged with conspiracy.

In addition Armand Laroche, alias Albert Larocque of Montreal, is sought on a murder charge. He is believed to have fled to Detroit or the Laurentian Mountains the day Boverman was killed. Laura Cote, Rochon's mistress, was named as an accessory after the fact, but the crown dropped the charge when she turned King's evidence.

GERMANS SAID TO WISH PEACE

London Times Believe Majority Desire Country to Avoid War

Canadian Press From Havas

London, March 30. — Newspapers, indicating the sweeping endorsement of Chancellor Hitler's policy by the German people was a foregone conclusion, today wondered how the situation would affect his anticipated peace proposals.

The London Times said: "Foreign opinion is not likely to take this demonstration too seriously. Whatever their opinions of the Nazi regime may be, the great majority of Germans are united in the desire for permanent peace and the insistance on Germany's equality with other nations . . .

"In the speeches of the Fuehrer himself there have been passages which have grated unpleasantly on foreign ears. He has shown no real appreciation of the shock which his violation of the Locarno Treaty has caused to the confidence of Germany's neighbors and of the necessity for some movement on his part towards restoring that confidence.

"Now that the campaign is over, Herr Hitler will be able to give full attention to his new proposals to the Locarno powers. The results have certainly added to his prestige. His statesmanship will be judged by his use of his present opportunity to make an effective contribution to the pacification of Europe."

FREE TO ACT

The London News Chronicle said: "The real importance of these elections is that they leave the Fuehrer free now to get on with the urgent business of the moment.

It may be difficult in the heated atmosphere of the elections to seem to make concessions, but that difficulty now has been removed."

FLANDIN'S SPEECH

Referring to the speech of French Foreign Minister Flandin yesterday evening, The News Chronicle said: "Flandin's questions are not unreasonable. Some of them at any rate must be answered if progress is now to be made."

ASKS HITLER SPEAK PLAINLY

GERMAN POLICY QUERIED

Foreign Minister Flandin asked:

1. What guarantees will Germany give that it will not violate a new treaty?

2. Why does it make a distinction between the "vital eternal rights" of the rest of the world?

3. Why does it "prepare peace" by suddenly occupying and fortifying a demilitarized zone?

4. What is the distinction between Hitler's "twenty-five-year peace offer" and the unlimited peace of existing pacts?

QUESTION OF COLONIES

5. If Germany claims the right to exploit colonies, what—and whose—colonies does it refer to?

6. Does Germany renounce absorption of other populations and territories?

M. Flandin, condemning Germany's "philosophy of force," demanded Chancellor Hitler renounce "aggression" as a condition for France to consider his peace offers.

The Foreign Minister said France would refuse to deal with Germany unless Hitler agrees to the naming of an international tribunal to arbitrate "Germany's conception of international life and that of other peoples."

DANZIG AND LITHUANIA

M. Flandin specifically demanded that the Reichsfuehrer declare "frankly" his "intentions" in regard to Danzig and Lithuania, lest the leader "convince himself one day that he is free to condemn everything which resulted from the Versailles Treaty," including the whole system of post-war boundaries.

Asking what would be the value of a treaty tomorrow if Germany reserved the right to repudiate it "in the name of the eternal moral right of the German people," M. Flandin reiterated France's refusal to sign a bilateral non-aggression pact with the Reich.

M. Flandinn reiterated that France is ready to negotiate with Hitler, "once respect for international law has been re-established," but he demanded that "bases for that negotiation be serious and precise."

Recalling that Hitler declared after the Saar plebiscite that there were no territorial questions dividing France and Germany and reaffirmed the Locarno Pact in the same speech, M. Flandin demanded the German dictator "clearly explain" his "designs."

COLONIAL FIELD

M. Flandin called on Hitler to tell "once and for all" his demands for colonies.

He asserted Hitler's offer of a bilateral non-aggression pact with France was designed to prevent her from going to the aid of Germany's "victims" in central and eastern Europe.

M. Flandin asked Hitler to give the answers to his questions "without reserve and without reticence before the German people" and not by "Vague harangues, planned to fool and lull public opinion.

"We are resolved to denounce manoeuvres and tricks which prepare new conflicts and new wars in the guise of peace," M. Flandin declared.

LAST APPEAL FAILED TODAY

BRUNO R. HAUPTMANN

No Clemency For Hauptmann

WOOD TESTIMONY

Trenton, N.J., March 30.—A representative of the New Jersey State police was called before the court of pardons today with the Flemington trial testimony of Arthur J. Koehler, federal wood expert, who swore it was his opinion Bruno Richard Hauptmann built the Lindbergh kidnap ladder.

The call for the testimony was regarded as an indication that Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who has questioned the state's contentions Hauptmann built the ladder, was pressing his fight in Hauptmann's behalf in this direction.

It was learned the court was especially interested in the testimony that qualified Koehler as an expert.

VISIT TO HOUSE

Governor Hoffman last Thursday visited Hauptmann's Bronx home to see for himself the attic flooring from which, the state contended, Hauptmann took a board which became "rail 16" of the ladder, and one of the most damaging pieces of evidence in the trial.

As the court convened to consider Hauptmann's plea Robert W. Hicks, Washington criminologist, who was employed by the Governor to carry on several phases of the Governor's personal investigation, brought to the State House a contrivance used last week on the Bronx visit to measure the angle of f w marks on the attic flooring and ca the ladder rail.

P. H. WENDEL HELD

Trenton, N.J., March 30.—The long shadow of the Lindbergh baby murder fell across two more men today even as the court of pardons met to consider the mercy plea of the condemned third—Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

One of the new figures in the increasingly bewildering case—the middle-aged, clergyman's son, Paul H. Wendel—is held in jail here. A formal charge of having murdered the baby had been filed against him, but he issued a statement denying any knowledge of the crime, and the county prosecutor said he, too, was convinced there was nothing to warrant prosecution.

The other man—Gaston B. Means, former secret service agent and now a federal prisoner for having fleeced Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of Washington by pretending to be an intermediary in ransom negotiations with the Lindbergh baby kidnappers—stood, self-accused by a "confession," purportedly penned in his Leavenworth penitentiary cell.

CENTRE OF INTEREST

Hauptmann is under sentence to be executed at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

CONFUSING SITUATION

The bizarre drama that found preparations being made to execute Hauptmann while the others were in widely separated cells, one directly charged with the crime and other "confessing" it, was made even more weird and confusing by the conflict of official opinion concerning the new developments.

Edwin R. Marshall, Mercer (Trenton) County prosecutor, said he believed Wendel did not know anything about the Lindbergh case except what he had read in the newspapers.

SAYS EVIDENCE EXISTS

On the other hand, James S. Kirkham, chief detective of Mercer County, who signed the murder complaint, said that in his opinion Wendel was "positively" connected with the murder in the Sourland Hills four years ago.

Kirkham said beside the repudiated confession he had other evidence to "substantiate the charge."

Wendel, awakened shortly after midnight yesterday for arraignment on the murder charge, pleaded "not guilty," and later issued the statement repudiating the confession which, said, had been obtained by torture and force.

HELD IN NEW YORK

"I did sign several statements, which were false, which implicated me," Wendel wrote to Attorney-General David T. Wilentz. "I was forced by torture and brutal treatment in New York, where I was detained from February 14 to February 24, 1936."

The superintendent of the state colony for feeble minded at New York, Dr. Carroll T. Jones, said Wendel was a voluntary patient, and produced the following paper dated February 24, 1936:

"I am willing to stay in your custody until this investigation is concluded.

"(Signed) P. H. Wendel."

QUICK ACTION

Associated Press

Trenton, N.J., March 30.—Court action against those "responsible for railroading" Paul H. Wendel, held on a Lindbergh murder charge, was promised today by the prisoner's attorney, John Kafes.

"It is clear to anyone that the murder charge is a fabrication," Kafes said, "and the grand jury will dismiss it."

Asserting there was no authority for the detention of Wendel in the New Lisbon state colony for feeble-minded males, Kafes said, "I will take action against those persons responsible for railroading him."

Wendel, in repudiating a "confession" to the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, said it had been obtained from him through threats and promises.

THIRTY WITNESSES

Trenton, N.J., March 30.—With invitations for the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann sent and police arrangements completed, Warden Mark O. Kimberling waited today for orders.

If they do not come before 8 p.m. tomorrow, he will carry out the last one he received—to put Hauptmann to death for the Lindbergh baby kidnapping.

Hauptmann was confident "something" would save him, but he knew not what. He slept late this morning and awaited a visit from his wife.

Taking nothing for granted, Kimberling went ahead with his plans for the execution. He directed state and city police to erect lines at 8 a.m. tomorrow morning, to keep back the crowds expected to gather.

He notified the thirty witnesses to appear at 7.15 p.m. to get their final passes and be ready to start the death walk a few minutes before 8.

It was said the witnesses would occupy four rows of chairs.

SOLITARY CONFINEMENT

Leavenworth, Kas., March 30 (Associated Press) — The Leavenworth Times today said Gaston B. Means, convicted of fleecing Mrs. Evalyn McLean of Washington D.C., in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, was in solitary confinement at the main federal prison here for allegedly attempting to have some letters smuggled out of the penitentiary.

The Times said he was placed in solitary for attempting to bribe guards to smuggle out the letters. One of the letters, the paper said, was reported to have been an eighteen-page letter containing Means's reputed "confession" in the Lindbergh case.

BURGLAR FIRES AT PURSUER

Bullet Passes Near Youth in Vancouver; Police Search For Robber

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 30.—Police searched today for a shoeless, and hatless burglar who fired a shot at Robert Malkin.

Miss Lucille Malkin awoke early today and found the man ransacking her room. She called for help and Robert, her twenty-two-year-old brother, came to her assistance clad in night attire.

The prowler ran out of the house and along a lane, with the youth in pursuit. The fugitive, when he saw he was in danger of being captured, turned and fired at his pursuer.

THREW CLOCK

A number of silver candlesticks, a jewel case and other articles were later found along the trail of the fleeing burglar, and his hat and shoes were found in the Malkin home.

J. Abrahamson reported to police being attacked and beaten by three men, who robbed him of $30. He was treated at a hospital for cuts and lacerations about the face.

STAFF TALKS ARE LIMITED

The Prime Minister's statement was made shortly after he and the cabinet had discussed a date on which the consultations might be started.

Mr. Baldwin said the cabinet would review everything to which the general staffs agreed and stated: "Assurance on that question was given the House during a recent debate and I confirm it now."

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Britain's war-time Prime Minister, had declared in the House a week ago that staff talks might lead to alliances, which in turn might involve the nation in war.

POLITICAL QUESTIONS

The question arose in the Commons when Lieut.-Commander R. F. Fletcher suggested British generals might not participate on an equal footing with the French.

He asked Mr. Baldwin to bear in mind "that as French generals frequently are politically minded while our generals very wisely do not concern themselves in political matters, they are likely to be at a disadvantage in conversations with the French."

Unconfirmed rumors arose that Hitler might notify Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, that he wishes to take a few more days to complete the draft of these details.

Some wilhelmstrasse sources expressed belief that Der Fuhrer desired to announce his reply to the Locarno nations in the same solemn way that he announced March 7 the occupation of the Rhineland in violation of the treaties of Versailles and Locarno.

That would be by calling together the new Reichstag, chosen to succeed the old body which was dissolved simultaneously with the Rhineland move, to permit the plebiscite on Hitler's policies.

This new body of some 740 Hitler followers, compared with 669 deputies in the last Reichstag, must assemble soon in any event to constitute itself and to take oath of allegiance to its Fuehrer.

REPLY TO FRANCE

In addition to reading his counter-proposals to this body, informed sources pointed out, Hitler could reply in detail to the question French Foreign Minister Flandin addressed yesterday to the German chief of state, demanding that Hitler renounce "aggression" as a condition to negotiation of his peace offers.

Der Fuehrer, in reply, informed sources said, probably would persist in his challenge to other statesmen to hold plebiscites on their foreign policies, as he did on his.

Seen in German eyes, yesterday's election demonstrated further how right the Reichstag was, at is Nuremberg session last September, in disfranchising the Jews, and how right the government was in depriving certain of its opponents of citizenship.

OFFICIAL COUNT

With the voting entirely in the hands of the Nazis and all strangers ordered away from the counting of the ballots, the official tabulation showed:

Qualified voters 45,428,641.

For Hitler 44,411,911.

Invalid votes 543,026.

Abstained 473,705.

East Prussia, separated from the remainder of the Reich by the creation of the Pomorze (Polish Corridor) in 1919, voted 99.75 per cent for Hitler.

Dispatches from Japan reported members of the German colonies in Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka put to sea in German steamships in order to cast their ballots outside the three-mile zone.

From Vera Cruz, Mexico, came news that 427 Germans voted on a steamer outside the three-mile limit, 420 approving Hitler's policies.

Fifty-five Geramns in Iraq, including sixteen women, voted aboard a German steamship in the Persian Gulf.

The Rhineland, affected particularly by Hitler's restoration of full German sovereignty in that district, expressly demilitarized by the Locarno Pact and Versailles Treaty, voted for the first time since the Great War and led the nation in supporting Hitler.

The Cologne district gave Der Fuehrer a 99.11 per cent endorsement, in official returns, with only 15,000 ballots ruled invalid of a total of 1,578,000. The Saar and neighboring regions turned in only 1,434 invalid ballots against 1,173,779 crossed in the circle.

Alberta Bonds Not Yet Met

Canadian Press

Edmonton, March 30.—With a debt of $3,200,000 falling due in less than forty-eight hours, the Aberhart Government was still looking for the money today with resources just about exhausted.

The Premier's statement at Calgary Sunday that "we can and will arrange for our coming maturity" was meant to indicate no more than that the government has advanced to the Dominion a proposal by which the maturity might be met by the federal government—a proposal whose terms have been a secret since it was dispatched to Ottawa a week ago.

But Federal Finance Minister Dunning has not assented to the plan, and as each hour went by the hope the Dominion would pay the province's debt became weaker.

"I meant at Calgary that although the province has no money to meet the Wednesday maturity, we have advanced proposals which would be satisfactory," Mr. Aberhart explained.

Actions Abroad Like Those at Home

Although the Wilhelmstrasse thus far has remained silent on the nature of its reply to the four-power Locarno proposals, Hitler will make this request as a condition for his future participation in diplomatic efforts to insure peace, the dispatch said.

To replace the scrapped Versailles and Locarno treaties, the correspondent continued, the Reich would offer the programme envisaging non-aggression pacts originally presented by the Fuehrer when his troops marched into the Rhineland. Hitler would also welcome an international conference to regulate economic and colonial problems, the Paris Soir dispatch stated.

Italian Planes Destroy Harar

Second City of Ethiopia Bombed to Ruins; Hospitals Stated Hit

Associated Press

Addis Ababa, March 30.—An Italian air raid which spread fire and panic throughout Harar wrought virtual destruction of that second city of Ethiopia, the government charged today, and wrecked several hospitals and centres.

A squadron of Fascist planes, Ethiopian reports said, plunged incendiary bombs down on the strategic centre 250 miles east of the capital for more than two hours yesterday, leaving the city in flames.

FEW BELIEVED DEAD

Forewarned by scouting planes, however, most of the populace had fled the city in terror. Few persons were believed victims of the bombardment.

An official communique, relayed by telephone from Harar to Addis Ababa, said fifteen bombs struck the Egyptian Red Cross Hospital there, several hit the Ethiopian Red Cross Hospital and two fell near the Swedish Hospital.

A French mission, the French consulate, the former Italian consulate, the Ethiopian radio station and prison all were reported officially to have been ruined.

REMAINED IN CHURCH

Monsignor Jaroseau, in charge of the French mission, refused to leave his alter during the bombardment," the commique said. "The church was wrecked, but he was not hurt."

The attack on Harar, coupled with a heavy bombardment of Jijiga, fifty miles east of Harar and a centre of Ethiopia's southern defence, raised native fears in Addis Ababa that the capital itself might be the next target of the Italian aerial bombs.

Coldest on Record; More Frost Tonight

be 20 per cent below normal and loganberries down about 10 per cent. Most of this damage was done during the severe weather in February.

Bulbs are very late and have been dwarfed but as far as last night's frost was concerned, Dirk Van der Bent, city grower, declared there had been no damage at all.

W. T. Edwards and G. A. Vantreight, large Gordon Head growers, were of the same opinion.

Tips of loganberries will probably be hurt but these are usually cut off. The cold weather came after it had been dry, so there had been little "heaving" of strawberries except in low-lying places, H. E. Tanner, Keating grower, said.

Except for a few early plums which undoubtedly will be badly damaged, no fruit trees are in bloom now yet.

CHINESE WORRIED

Chinese farmers reported that there had been slight damage to crops such as early lettuce, carrots, cabbage and broccoli and were fearful of further cold.

The west coast of Vancouver Island suffered from the cold and Estevan had a low of 26 degrees last night. Reports to the Dominion Meteorological Observatory showed Prince Rupert shivered in 10 degrees of frost which is unusual for this time of the year.

The frost area extended into northern California.

Associated Press

Seattle, March 30.—One of winter's last "flings" brought the coldest March 30 in years over the state today.

Bright sunshine in some areas raised the temperature during the day, but more freezing temperatures were expcted tonight.

Spokan reported 21 above, with an inch of snow during the night. The snow began to melt with a bright sun, but the weather bureau said the high pressure area would hold for twenty-four hours, followed by gradually rising temperatures.

The minimum at the Seattle Central Business District Observatory was 30, the coldest March 30 since the 29 minimum in 1897. Boeing field reported 26 above.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 30.—Vancouver was basking in bright sunshine today after the thermometer reached a low of 26.5 degrees overnight, the coldest weather experienced during this month.

The sun was bright yesterday, but succeeded in raising the temperature to only 43 degrees.

PIGEONS FLY IN GRAIN EXCHANGE

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, March 30.—A pair of pigeons took control of the trading pit of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange for a time today, driving the "bulls" and "bears" to the sidelines.

Traders lost interest in the dull market and wheat, the commodity which figures largest in their operations, was literally thrown into the pit—to feed the pigeons.

Eager brokers lined the sides of the inverted cone in which thousands of bushels of wheat daily change hands to watch the birds fly about the big trading floor. The pigeons in some manner had obtained access to the room during the week-end.

TOWNSENDERS DIP IN FUNDS

But Only in Isolated Cases, Says Pension Plan Leader in United States

Associated Press

Baltimore, March 30.—The Baltimore Sun said today Dr. Francis E. Townsend, whose old-age pension movement is under congressional scrutiny, admitted some of his workers had, of necessity, "dipped into the main funds" of the organization.

"But there has been no gigantic plan of robbery," the elderly Long Beach, Calif., physician, was quoted by the paper.

"There have been small peculations by some of our workers. It was inevitable.

"Some of these workers were out on commission—that's the only way we could deal with them—and when the commissions sometimes were not enough for them to eat on or live on, they dipped into the main funds.

Berlin, March 30.—A workman who struck the acting pastor of Berlin's American church, Rev. Stewart Herman of Harrisburg, Pa., became the object of a city-wide police hunt today.

A spokesman for the propaganda ministry said ". . . if the culprit is found, he will be severely punished."

The workman, who apparently thought the pastor showed a lack of reverence for the Nazi flag, struck him on the jaw last Friday.

MAN ACCUSED OF SLAYING WIFE

Selkirk, Man., March 30.—John Pawluk, called as a witness at an inquest on the death of Genio Bulega, today faced a charge of murdering his wife. A body found in a manure pile on the Pawluk farm at nearby Gonor, twenty-five miles north of Winnipeg, is believed that of Mrs. Pawluk.

Pawluk was arrested Saturday night by Royal Canadian Mounted Police and brought here in custody, later being removed to Winnipeg. Dr. W. G. Ross, coroner, ordered an inquest on the death of Mrs. Pawluk and the inquest on Bulega's death will be resumed Wednesday.

Bulega was found dead in his home from gunshot wounds in the head. The shotgun was lying nearby. Police discounted suicide theories and began an investigation which is still proceeding. His body was found last week.

Mrs. Pawluk disappeared from her home last November and a search failed to disclose her whereabouts. Examination of the Pawluk farm Saturday unearthed the body, which police said had been identified by relatives as that of Mrs. Pawluk.

League Is Credited With Averting War

Newton D. Baker, Former U.S. Secretary of War, Says Europe Would Be Fighting Now But For Geneva Body's Influence

Associated Press

New York, March 30.—Newton D. Baker, who was United States Secretary of War in the Woodrow Wilson cabinet, credits the League of Nations with having averted a European plunge into "the second world war" during the last year. Baker spoke on a national peace conference programme.

"This thing is clear—the existence of the League has for a year required the greatest military powers of the world to discuss and debate in the open their plans and their controversies, and accordingly no nation is now bold enough to believe it can nurse a plan which it cannot explain persuasively enough to secure the sympathy of the disinterested part of the world," he said.

"It seems quite certain that but for the existence of the League of Nations Europe would long since have been plunged into the disaster of the second world war. The League has given the world a year of debate instead of a year of battle, and it may yet save us from catastrophe."

NEWTON D. BAKER

FEW TEARS FOR "SUICIDE SONG"

Associated Press

Chicago, March 30.—The "suicide song" that made twenty Hungarians so sad they killed themselves is just another blues tune to its first American audience.

The "death spell" that prompted the Hungarian government to ban the sentimental strains of "Gloomy Sunday" from that country had no effect on the select little group which heard it first at a dress rehearsal of a German operetta in Chicago.

A few tears were shed—but that was all—over the jilted lover who used a tango melody to tell his girl friend he hoped she would like the way he looked in a shroud.

Americans "just aren't sentimental enough to kill themselves over a song," Producer William Kline said in explaining why he did not expect any suicides to result from "gloomy Sunday's" United States debut.

Aberhart Denies He Is Divorced

Canadian Press

Calgary, March 30.—Addressing his Prophetic Bible Institute yesterday, Premier William Aberhart of Alberta declared he was "old fashioned" and did not "believe in divorce," and, too, he denied he was "a divorced man."

A Saskatchewan letter writer asked him to "kindly verify the statement that you are a 'divorced man'."

The Premier's reply was:

"Listen, Saskatchewan. I've only been married once, and I'm still living happily with my wife. I have often wondered how she put up with me so long—thirty-eight years—but she hasn't divorced me yet. I guess it must be because of her goodness and kindness to me."

U.S. PRESIDENT'S SON GUARDED

Canadian Press

Boston, March 30.—Two secret service agents guarded John A. Roosevelt, youngest son of the United States President, when he appeared Friday evening at the Copley Theatre in Harvard's Hasty Pudding Club play, it was learned today.

Secret service officials said it was merely a routine precaution.

No estimate of damage was available tonight.

Canadian Press

London, March 30.—Baron Marshall of Chipstead, one of the biggest figures in the London publishing and distributing trade for the last fifty years, died yesterday. He was seventy-one years old.

As Sir Horace B. Marshall he became Lord Mayor of London two days before the Armistice in 1918. His year in office was signalized by an unprecedented series of civic compliments to foreign statesmen. He probably admitted to the freedom of London more famous men than any predecessor.

He in turn was widely honored by foreign countries, receiving decorations from Italy, Belgium, Japan, Greece, Roumania, Norway, Persia and China. He was knighted in 1902 and elevated to the peerage in 1921. He was governing director of Horace Marshall and Son Limited, publishers.

He leaves no heir.

Ten Lose Lives Train-bus Crash

Locomotive and Five Cars Derailed in Georgia

Associated Press

Byron, Ga., March 30.—Ten persons, including four members of one family, lost their lives in the crash of a bus and a Georgia Central passenger train, the Southland, which left the rails after the impact.

Eight mangled bodies were removed from the wreckage following the accident Saturday night and two others, including the bus driver, died yesterday without regaining consciousness. Three were in hospitals today with serious injuries.

Although the entire train, locomotive, three express cars and two coaches, was derailed, railroad officials said none of its crew or passengers was injured.

G. NAEDER DIES IN NEW YORK

Brooklyn, N.Y., March 30.—George Naeder, seventy, former news editor of the Associated Press, died yesterday at the family home after an illness of only a few days.

Mr. Naeder, who entered the employ of the Associated Press thirty-nine years ago, previously had been employed by the United Press and Scripps-McRae newspapers. He retired from active newspaper work eight years ago.

Entering the United Press at the age of fourteen as a copy boy, Naeder rose through the ranks from reporter to editor and then entered the Scripps-McRae organization. He went to the Associated Press in 1897 and from night news editor he eventually became day news editor, the position he held at his retirement.

Mr. Naeder was generally credited with having been the first to get the flash on the Titanic disaster, but his greatest boast was his world-wide beat on the Jack Johnson-Tommy Burns heavyweight fight in Australia.

Toronto Students Are Anti-war

Chapter of "Veterans of Future Wars" Formed at Ontario University

Toronto, March 30.—Undergraduates of the University of Toronto, proceeding on the premise that they are destined to fill the front trenches in the next war, have organized a Canadian chapter of "The Veterans of Future Wars," an organization which was launched in the eastern United States.

The Toronto group has already proposed some demands, which include a cenotaph and a bonus from the government.

"We do not demand an expensive cenotaph," President R. G. Anglin said. "One of our members has designed an appropriate one on the simple lines of a park bench. It will not only be a thing of beauty, but will provide a place for the unemployed veteran of tomorrow to sit down."

The veterans-to-be also want the government to pay them a bonus of $1,000 immediately. They argue that as future veterans, they ought to get whatever benefits there are and choose to be paid first.

Mr. Wentworth, in an address at the banquet, said the "suffering masses" of the province of Quebec should join with the west and form a united co-operative commonwealth federation.

Other members of the party visiting Montreal were M. J. Coldwell Rosetown-Biggar, Sask., C. Grant MacNeil, M.P. for Vancouver North, and J. S. Taylor, M.P. for Nanaimo, B.C.

Not Wavering, Says Aberhart

Albertans Asked Not to Heed Rumors About Social Credit Government

Canadian Press

Calgary, March 30.—Premier Aberhart of Alberta, speaking at the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute yesterday on his "Go to Church Sunday," declared Alberta would arrange to meet its $3,200,000 maturity, April 1.

"We can and will rarange for our coming maturity," said the head of the province's Social Credit government in a reference to the bonds which the province has asked the federal government to assist in paying.

The Premier declared he had never any intention of resigning the premiership because of the failure of Major C. H. Douglas, founder of Social Credit, to come to Alberta to take over his duties as reconstruction adviser. He said a Montreal newspaper had quoted him as admitting he would resign and call an election.

"I never suggested we throw up our hands and resign," sair Mr. Aberhart. "I was somewhat disappointed in not being able to persuade Major Douglas to come. The government had offered him a free hand. What more could he want? He took a strange position in the face of a splendid opportunity."

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

The premier said of the federal government did not agree to asist Alberta, with approval of the Federal Loan Council, there was the provincial right governing finances in section 92 of the British North America Act.

"It is not now the time to surrender it," he declared. "We shall not."

He had received a telegram last Thursday saying it was rumored in Ottawa he had, in secret, agreed to the loan council. He said he replied:

"Absolutely no truth in the rumor."

INTEREST REDUCTION

Determination to reduce interest charges was also expressed by Mr. Aberhart:

"We will never solve Alberta's problems by continual borrowings," he said. "We can never borrow ourselves out of debt."

NOT WAVERING

To his followers he warned: Don't let rumors bother you. No matter what they say, we are not wavering one iota. The fact that we are taking each step with the greatest of care should give you confidence."

Mr. Aberhart urged his listeners to support his "go to church" campaign, he Premier a week ago having asked all people in Alberta to attend services March 29.

"I hope you have not forgotten to do what I asked you to do," the Premier said. "How many were at church this morning? Let's count them. About 129 out of an audience of 1,000 have been to church. Well, that's not so good, is it?

"You can't expect to get prosperity if we don't go to church. Won't you go to church once this Sunday at least? Get to some church, go to the nearest church, go to your own church. I want you all to acknowledge the Lord. It isn't much to ask, and anyway it is your duty, so that next Sunday you will be able to say 'Yes, I went to church'."

Pickwick Coach Is Seen In London

Thousands See Characters Ride in Streets as Centenary of Dickens Work Celebrated; Victoria Represented

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 30. — Celebrating the 100th anniversary of the publication of "The Pickwick Papers" by Charles Dickens, the famous Commodore Coach—the actual coach which bore the Pickwickians to Rochester 100 years ago—set forth again today from the Golden Cross wth its quintette of illustrious passengers.

Departure of the coach was part of the elaborate ceremonies arranged by the Dickens Fellowship and other devotees to celebrate the centenary of that immortal work.

Mr. Pickwick, rotund and exuding geniality through his spectacles, was hoisted aloft, followed by Mr. Tupman, elderly but impressionable where female charms are concerned. Then there mounted the poetic Snodgrass with Winkle, the would-be sportsman. Last of all came the scapegrace Alfred Jingle, with lamp black hair, green coat and brown paper parcel sticking out of his pocket just as it did a century back. Bertram Mills, who owns the Commodore, was the coachman.

Thousands of city workers, pouring from very modern tubes and motor buses, paused to admire the Commodore with its great yellow wheels, black body, four spanking horses and its scarlet-coated guard playing a merry fanfare on a horn.

Perhaps a goodly portion of the younger element in the crowd had but a hazy idea of what the lively doings signified, for it is whispered that youths and maidens today do not read Dickens with the same avidity as their fathers and grandfathers.

The Commodore and its surroundings looked their parts to the last detail, but the present day surroundings of the Golden Cross retain but the faintest traces of their appearances of 100 years ago, and even its immediate predecessor was not the Golden Cross from which Mr. Pickwick and his companions started. The original hostelry stood 200 yards or more to the west, about on the site where the Nelson Monument now is.

VICTORIA REPRESENTED

The Dickens Fellowship is holding its forty-ninth convention here simultaneously with the celebration. A total of forty-nine branches are represented, including Victoria and Vancouver, B.C., Toronto, Edmonton, Philadelphia, Copenhagen and Brisbane.

A GOOSE-STEP ELECTION

GERMANY WENT THROUGH THE formality yesterday of electing a new Reichstag. That is to say, Reichsfuehrer Hitler and his Nazi government confirmed themselves in office by practically compelling 100 per cent of the voters to approve their policies by marking their ballots "Ja." Of an electoral list of 45,428,641, a total of 44,945,937 votes were cast, and of this number Hitler collected no fewer than 44,411,911. The number of ballots described as invalid is set down as 543,026, which means that this is the total of those who were brave enough to vote "Nein." There were 473,705 who abstained from voting.

The campaign which preceded the procession to the ballot boxes was one of the most intensively propagandized affairs of any since the Nazis became a force in German political life. Its chief object, of course, was to "tell the world" that the German people are solidly behind Reichsfuehrer Hitler in his foreign policy—that the German people approve his scrapping of the Treaty of Versailles, his abrogation of the Locarno pacts, and, as a corollary, the remilitarization of the Rhineland. In other words, it was less of a general election for a new Reichstag than a plebiscite on a purely external issue, similar, in the main, to the plebiscite taken in November, 1933, to approve Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations. On that occasion the Hitler percentage was 93.5 per cent.

The last Reichstag was elected on March 5, 1933, when more or less constitutional lines were followed, nearly a dozen parties entering candidates; but when the ballots had been counted the Hitlerites and their allies, the Nationalists, had considerably more than half the votes to their credit, giving them 340 seats out of a total House membership of 647. It was generally understood, however, that any definite swing to the Nazi cause would be followed by virtual abolition of all semblance of representative government. So, when the Reichstag met less than three weeks after the election the Constitution of Weimar, which established the republic, was practically set aside and absolute power vested in the Chancellor and his cabinet. An Enabling Act followed which defined the wide scope of the government's authority, and, under it, permission was taken to set up the personal dictatorship of the Chancellor. Since then, of course, the Reichsfuehrer's domination has been supreme and none dare say him nay.

While there is not the least element of surprise in yesterday's verdict, any more than there was in the plebiscite of November, 1933, it will be noted that nothing in the avalanche of spoken and printed propaganda which marked the whirlwind campaign had reference to internal conditions—unemployment, an acute financial situation, continual loss of external markets, rising costs of foodstuffs, and so on. It was a direct appeal to national pride in the face of a craftily-drawn picture of external menace. It was bound to win. Germans in their present mood are seized with the goose-step complex. But the Reichsfuehrer, sooner or later—perhaps sooner than later—will have to face an internal reality which will upset him.

"IN PRINCIPLE"

ACCORDING TO THE DISCUSSION OF the provincial health bill in the Legislature, the members are almost unanimous in support of the principle—until an attempt is made to translate it into practice. Then it goes too far, it does not go far enough, it is a burden on industry, it is a burden on the employees, it penalizes the poor, it is discriminatory, it is not discriminatory, it is Socialistic, it is reactionary, it is inopportune, it is too early, it is too late, it is the thin end of a wedge, it is the thick end of a wedge, Dr. Weir is a communist, Dr. Weir is a diehard Tory, and so on.

There is no question that the bulk of this criticism would be launched against any measure of health insurance, even if it were drawn up by the Angel Gabriel. Humanitarianism is the motive which prompts it, and this in a world rotten with materialism is enough to damn it in many eyes. Incidentally, the vicissitudes the legislation is encountering are smoking into the open some of the Liberals who with their tongues in their cheeks voted for health insurance in the convention which put it in the forefront of the party platform. The mucilage has lost its virtue and the label is falling off.

A WORTHY CAUSE

THE SUM OF $600,000 IS REQUIRED TO build and equip a cancer hospital, according to Col. E. B. Westby, honorary treasurer of the B.C. Cancer Foundation. This amount has been set by the executive as the objective of a campaign for funds soon to be commenced.

A bill was introduced in the provincial Legislature last week by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, guaranteeing the note of the Foundation to the amount of $105,000 for the purchase of radium. This was the first concrete step toward the provision of a provincial centre for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

As a cause of death in British Columbia cancer is next only to heart disease. It is far more to be dreaded than heart disease because of its insidious and eventually painful nature. Present facilities are hopelessly inadequate to cope with the scourge. For this reason 50 per cent more persons die from cancer than should. A modern, well-equipped cancer hospital is expected to reduce the cancer death rate by 50 to 75 per cent.

Before delivery of the radium can be taken equipment for using it will have to be purchased and installed. Special quarters, insulated throughout, will have to be constructed. Unless such precautions are taken radium and X-ray rays are dangerous to those in the vicinity. Only in the hands of specialists are they curative agencies.

X-ray equipment will be required in addition to the radium, as X-rays are used for diagnosis and also for treatment. The total cost of the radiation equipment, radium and X-ray, will be $350,000. The hospital building and its necessary equipment will cost $250,000 more.

The slogan of the province-wide campaign for funds will be "A Great Campaign for a Great Need." The great need lies in the fact that British Columbia is the most backward province of the Dominion in its efforts to reduce the ravages of cancer. With a properly equipped and staffed diagnostic and treatment centre, knowledge of the danger of cancer can be spread throughout the province. The disease is curable under efficient treatment when found in its early stages.

E. W. Hamber is president of the B.C. Cancer Foundation. His Honor Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson is honorary president, with Premier T. D. Pattullo and the Rev. Robert Connell, honorary vice-presidents. The following are vice-presidents: W. H. Malkin, F. J. Burd, of Vancouver; Sir Frank Barnard, Victoria, and Ralph E. White, Kamloops. Major Harold Brown is chairman, and W. J. Twiss, vice-chairman of the board of governors. Dr. G. F. Strong is honorary secretary.

EIGHTH OR SECOND

THE CONTENTION IN SOME SCOTTISH quarters that the present King is not the eighth sovereign of his name to rule over Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Dominions beyond the seas and over India as Emperor, seems to be historically correct. A similar point was raised at the time of the accession of Edward VII. Six Edwards reigned as monarchs in England long before Scotland ceased to be an independent nation. Their realms comprised England, Wales and, subject to almost continuous insurrection, Ireland. The sixth Edward reigned from 1553 to 1558. Scotland came into the English picture in 1603, when the sixth James of the northern kingdom became King James I of England, but he remained, however, James VI of Scotland. The parliamentary union of the two kingdoms was not consummated until 1707. Nor were there any Dominions beyond the seas during the reigns of the first six Edwards; India was not a British dependency until many years later and was not proclaimed an empire until 1876. Historically, therefore, the present King is the second ruler of his name to reign over the vast domain which is now included in the style in which he is proclaimed. The point, however, while interesting is not important. The popularity of the new ruler, like that of his father, transcends all considerations of this kind.

REGIMENTATION

NO SESSION OF THE PROVINCIAL LEGislature would be complete without the appearance of a private bill raising the fences around the operations of the profession or group which instigates it. A favorite provision, common to almost all of these measures, is one which limits the advertising of prices or prohibits all advertising. In several instances bills with this prohibition have slipped through the House, but Attorney-General Sloan has evidently decided to put a stop to these attempts at a form of regimentation which not only would abridge the rights and privileges of those they directly affect but would react to the disadvantage of the public as a whole. The Legislature, whose chief duty should be to protect the public, should not be a party to any restrictive class or group legislation of this kind. It certainly should not be a party to the extension of monopolistic privileges, or the prevention of any person promoting his business or profession by any means which may not be detrimental to the public interest. The fact that this has been done before is no reason why the practice should be continued.

What Other Papers Say

WHAT THEY ALL SAY
The Detroit News

It is probably true that no sane person in Europe wants war. But the French put their case: "Are we going to let Germany have her way for two years longer? She will then be thoroughly prepared to fight, and who will be safe?" The Russians say: "For a long time the Germans have talked about a drive to the Black Sea through the Ukraine. Hitler has categorically refused to include us in his peace arrangements." The Little Entente says: "Germany's war plans include an attack on Czechoslovakia." Poland says: "We need peace for reconstruction purposes; if Germany goes to war, will she occupy the Corridor?" Lithuania says: "Germany promises a peace treaty with us, but only on condition that we give up our claim to Memel." Well, the problem goes to the League of Nations.

BAD FORM
The Brockville Recorder

The editor of an Italian newspaper published in Toronto informs the public that under the guidance of two teachers whose salaries are paid partly by the Italian Government and the remainder by the Italian people of that city, children in two Italian schools in that city are each day taught to stand erect and give the Fascist salute. Many of these children, he adds, are members of the youngest group of Fascists, known as the Balilla—youngsters between the ages of eight and fourteen years who wear black shirts and are taught to salute and honor Il Duce. Even the physical exercises are under the ruling of Fascist organizations.

The gentleman furnishing this information declares that "we are within the law in everything we do." Maybe so, but they are also guilty of extremely bad taste.

OPINIONS CHANGE
The Washington Star

Public opinion is a variable quantity. It ebbs and flows, never is static. Even with regard to events of the distant past, occurrences embalmed in the invulnerable amber of history, the verdict of humanity alters as the years recede. Illustrations are numerous. For example, during the World War many philatelists in Great Britain, France and the United States joined in an agreement to abstain forever from collecting German stamps. Those who subscribed to the covenant unhesitatingly tore from their albums valuable and hitherto treasured specimens of Teutonic origin. Dealers threw their Middle Europe stock into the waste-basket. The publishers of philatelic journals and catalogues omitted from their pages all mention of the postal issues of the enemy. A decade later peace was restored. Then followed a panic rush to replace the outlawed material.

Across The Bay

The House enjoys a jolly day—full of excitement and strange shifts — and wild excursions—which lead nowhere—except to exhaustion.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

JOLLY DAY

PROBABLY the proceedings of Saturday in this House will grow dim after a while in the pages of history, but never in the minds of our current politicians. For most of the back benches it was the first real baptism of fire. For the galleries, or those parts that knew what was happening, it was the only real excitement of the session.

You have read already how the government was turned down on two separate votes? How Mr. Pearson refused to vote the first time and voted against his colleagues the second time; how Mr. Wismer threatened to resign and the Prime Minister told off his old colleague, Dr. Sutherland. But type doesn't convey very well the seething emotions of your provincial legislators as they went home for the week-end, wondering what the next week would bring forth.

All the tensions of these tense times, all the nerves that have been frayed thin suddenly snapped on Saturday morning with a resounding twang. By dinner time they were in such a stage that the government called off the evening session to give the House the Sabbath to recover its poise, and Dr. Weir a chance to rest up at home after weeks of overwork.

MATCH AND TINDER

THE HEALTH insurance bill, as everyone had expected, was the match in the bone dry tinder of politics. All morning long the House wrangled over it and made hardly any progress. One C.C.F. amendment was forced upon the government by vote, one was accepted after the House had reversed the government again on a point of order. And finally, Mr. Pearson stood up alone against his colleagues.

These votes were only in committee and did not affect the House's confidence in the government. But they were the first occurrence of the sort in many years. Moreover, they must have made the treasury benches ponder what would happen when the insurance bill reached a more vital test later on. To the opponents of the bill, of course, they brought a wild joy which was not concealed, for they hope now that by a combination between them, who don't want the bill, and the C.C.F., which does, on some amendment which the government doesn't want, they may be able to stultify the whole business. To such enterprise will Monday and Tuesday be devoted.

FRANK WORDS

THE INSURANCE bill was pulled out of the House on Saturday afternoon but scheduled to go on again in the evening. But the dam having burst in the morning, the flood of passion and protest continued most of the afternoon whatever business the government cared to bring up. Having tasted battle and the sweet, intoxicating taste of independence, the Liberal members were ravenous for more.

Thus Mr. Wismer held up the act validating Vancouver's baby bonds, with the charge that the city authorities had broken faith with his private bills committee and the public — a sentiment which Mrs. Steeves endorsed and Mr. Pooley embroidered.

Then Mr. Murray broke out with another spell of fulmination stronger than any of those he has treated us to so far. Turning on the government in which he appears to have lost all confidence, he cried out that it had done nothing for industry and had penalized the country people. He suggested, also, that the House remove its high hat and get down to business and stop all this waste and extravagance. It distressed Mr. Murray particularly to observe that half a dozen hon. members had slept through Mr. Pearson's masterly explanation of the unemployment problem. As a matter of fact, there has been little time lately to sleep except when the House was in session, which probably accounts for many bad tempers and desperate spirits.

SCOT

EVEN MR. WILKINSON, the government's faithful assistant whip, who is the very picture of loyalty and may be the Liberal organizer, could stand the strain no longer. When Mr. MacPherson moved on behalf of the government to sidetrack a C.C.F. motion in favor of higher unemployment relief allowances, Mr. Wilkinson's patience snapped. In his rich Scottish accent he announced that this business of passing the buck was no good. Let us, cried he, get down to brass tacks and do something.

In such an atmosphere, Mr. Pearson's excellent unemployment speech was largely lost. It should have been delivered at some other point in the session when it would have been more fully appreciated. From the beginning the Minister of Labor traced the unemployment problem, what had been done about it, what was being done, what should be done, and he showed a mastery of detail which has made him one of the best administrators this province has ever known.

SLOGAN

MR. PEARSON began by giving his understanding of the slogan, "Work and Wages," always a dangerous subject to discuss. Freely he confessed that he had little use for slogans, which, he believed, sometimes acted as a boomerang and he had never used "Work and Wages" in his own campaign in Nanaimo. He conceived the slogan to mean that the unemployed would be asked to work for their relief at the rate of reasonable wages. When Mr. Murray asked who had invented "Work and Wages" in the first place, Mr. Pearson said he didn't know, but added the rather cryptic remark that some day the slogan might have some real merit.

The Premier suggested that the slogan had had some merit "at the time." To this Mr. Pearson replied that he meant real merit.

THE DIGNITY OF HOME

To the Editor:—I have been greatly struck by a picture in The Colonist of the Y.W.C.A. Household Training Class just closing their course sponsored by the Education Department.

I don't think any group photographed on the island has ever shown so many attractive and happy young faces—the general appearance of intelligence, competence and of well-bredness especially, being such as to make one wish one could afford to engage one of them at once; for each one looks just the kind of girl well-bred people would like to have in their homes. If these girls carry with them into their profession the friendly, kindly dispositions which seem to characterize them, as well as the sound training they have just so wisely taken advantage of, they will be treasures in the homes they go to work in; and the hitherto overworked house-mothers will find their frayed nerves recovering tone, and their lives growing far happier, for the helpful presence of such eager, dependable, sunny young people.

May I offer each one a piece of advice given to me when I married—"Never both get mad at the same time!" Life has some difficult hours for most of us, and if one is quick to recognize such hours in the hearts of others, one can always think "well, I'll wait to get edgey myself another day!" That other day may never come!

A HOUSEWIFE.

HEALTH INSURANCE ESSENTIAL

To the Editor:—Addressing the House recently during passage of the new health bill, Dr. Sutherland suggested that doubtless a large increase in hospitalization would result from the health scheme and that already hospitals were overcrowded.

Quoting him, "You have no right to sell accommodation you can't deliver," which delightfully simple philosophy might be applied very aptly, as many of us will agree, to the question whether the medico should expect payment unless and when a cure is effected.

And on further reflection we ponder over the alarming increase in sickness and the necessity for such vast hospital accommodation in view of the great strides alleged in scientific medical improvement in preventive and curative treatment, culminating in the necessity for some method of insurance to cope with the situation.

The doctor member for Revelstoke also says, "We shall be told what kind of medical treatment we should have and how long we shall stay in bed."

Maybe those operating the health scheme will have much to say regarding the greatly abused convenience hitherto afforded the doctor in enabling the latter to cut traveling expenses by "lodging" an excess of patients in hospital—patients who might equally well be cared for at home.

It will fervently be hoped that under the health scheme doctors will collaborate with a view to reducing the burden of health costs to the state or province.

Dr. Sutherland's determined and pugnacious denunciation of the scheme in all its phases can have no other result than to awaken speculation as to the cause for his vitriolic outbursts—whether he sincerely has at heart the indigent sick or not.

In conclusion, let not the public nor its representatives be misguided by the attack directed to the bill by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association.

Mr. Pooley says life insurance men would thoroughly support any good plan to improve the health of the people.

To the writer such an attack indicates a decidedly nervous disposition on the part of such associations. They perceive the "writing on the wall."

The C.C.F. commendably visualize in this scheme the foundation of what ultimately will become the most useful legislation in this province, and are apparently convinced that Dr. Weir is thoroughly capable of completing what he has set out to accomplish—a worthy task.

Relief Policies Are Discussed

Minister Explains Government Position; Liberals Demand Jobs Be Given

A comprehensive analysis of British Columbia's relief situation by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, in the Legislature Saturday was followed by demands from Liberal members for schemes which would put men to work rather than leave them drawing small relief allowances.

The debate arose on a resolution by Mrs. D. G. Steeves, C.C.F. North Vancouver, calling for a new scale of allowances for children.

Mr. Pearson pointed out first that the British Columbia relief scale is now 17 per cent higher than when the present government took office. In addition some $180,000 a year was being provided for medical aid to unemployed.

The minister said his conception of the "work and wages" slogan of the Liberal Party was that a man would get paid standard wages for working out the relief coming to him.

ATTEMPTS MADE

He outlined the attempts the government had made to improve this position, giving extra money to men who worked, starting the young men's forestry training plan and the mine-training scheme—all in the direction of the policy of giving people work with wages for it.

He cited figures showing that relief rolls had dropped some 15 per cent since the government took office, but stressed that the serious problem was in municipalities. This, he said, was the most important thing in dealing with a possible programme. For a matter of $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 the government could take care of all unemployment in unorganized areas, but this would still leave the major problem in the cities.

That, he explained, was the entire trouble behind dealing with the problem.

"We have to borrow every cent to pay for it and we hardly know from month to month where we are," he declared. "Right now we don't know what will happen after March 31.

"One of the things that has made it almost impossible for the government to deal with it on a permanent basis has been our dependency on the federal government for funds."

MANY ARE DISABLED

Another factor with an important bearing on the suggestion of dealing with it by public works was that 14,700 of the 32,000 heads of families and single people on relief claimed some kind of disability.

Dealing with the relief scale, Mr. Pearson admitted it was not enough for a person to live on property. He pointed out, however, that in the first place it had not been intended to give a regular standard of living but to forestall destitution.

"Now," he added, "we're in the position when people believe the government is responsible for their upkeep."

He cited cases of men who had refused to accept jobs because they were getting along on relief allowances.

The province was taking care of permanent unemployed, temporarily unemployed, casual workers, transients and even men who had just come out of jail.

SOCIAL SECURITY GIVEN

"Within the limits of our relief scale, we are today giving social security to every person in the province," he declared.

It had been suggested funds be turned over to the public works department to put men to work, but this, quite apparently, would not solve the problem.

COST OF WORKS

Relief officials, he said, had made careful calculations to show it would cost $20,000,000 to take care of the persons on relief last October by public works, and there were more on the rolls now. This would provide $600 a year for married men, $400 for single men and welfare treatment for those who cannot work.

He regarded the transient problem as the most serious of all, estimating an increase of some 20,000 persons employed in the industries of the province between 1933 and 1934, while the decrease in relief had not corresponded.

George M. Murray, Liberal, Lillooet, who followed Mr. Pearson, decreed the "standstill policy" of the government on relief matters, especially in the case of upcountry ranchers who were penalized for taxes and given no aid. It was time, he said, to take off the "high hats" and stop putting on a "big front" and get back to the simple things. He criticized lack of interest among members. Half a dozen had been asleep while the Minister of Labor was discussing the most important problem before the province.

"We've got to move," he declared, "and escape from this strangulation by compound interest."

OTTAWA ACTING

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, moved an amendment to Mrs. Steeves's resolution to the effect that since the federal government was drafting a new unemployment policy no change should be made.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Liberal, Revelstoke, agreed with this but still thought a policy could be worked out of giving men four or five months steady work during the year and holding back part of their pay to carry them over the intervening period. Unemployment money was being spent on capital account and the province had nothing to show for it in its capital assets, he said.

Robert Wilkinson, Liberal, Vancouver-Point Grey, declared "this idea of passing the buck is no good. Let's get down to brass tacks and do something."

Byron Johnson, Liberal, Victoria, said he did not like to see members of the House criticizing each other on relief policies at a time when the federal government was laying down a policy on unemployment. He believed the new national commission would work out a solution.

R. W. Bruhn, Independent, Salmon Arm, said it was apparent relief would be a problem for many years to come and not the temporary thing expected at first. It was foolish to think you could put every man to work "at his own back door," and it was time the government acted.

R. H. Carson, Liberal, Kamloops, adjourned debate on the matter.

DISCARDS GOOD TRICKS

Declarer Drops Ace and King on Dummy's Cards, to Open Way For Losers and Make Grand Slam

By WM. E. McKENNEY

Would you call a man a coward because he did not lay down an ace against a six bid? As a matter of fact, most good players will tell you that to open an ace against a six bid is usually just what the declarer wants you to do.

In today's hand, however, if West fails to open with his ace of hearts, the declarer will make a grand slam. The hand is a tricky one, with which you can get a few laughs from your friends.

Now, you have to be a little bit careful at the very beginning, because, if you make a mistake on the first trick, not only will you fail to make seven, but your contract will be defeated.

SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS CONTRACT PROBLEM

The opening lead of the deuce of diamonds must be won in dummy with the ace, to keep the lead in dummy.

The second play is also important. You must lead the king of clubs, and on the jack of diamonds you must discard the ace of clubs. Now, dummy's three clubs are good, and on these you discard your three hearts.

A spade is led from dummy and the finesse taken. The ace of spades is played, capturing East's king, and you now can spread the hand for the rest of the tricks, making a grand slam.

This hand brings out the importance of being careful about studying out a hand before playing to the first trick.

Today's Contract Problem

West is playing the contract at four hearts. What reasoning must South apply to this hand, at the very first trick, to defeat the contract?

COLLEGE NOTES

At a stormy meeting of the Alma Mater Society on Wednesday an amendment was made to the constitution providing a new first-year member on the Students' Council, and commencing next term, the freshmen will be represented by a freshman, elected by first-year men. The freshettes will be represented by a woman member, elected by the first-year women.

The new Students' Council will take over the reins of office at a joint meeting of the outgoing and new councils next Tuesday. As the date for the annual Alma Mater Society picnic has been set for April 23 the new council will immediately commence arrangements for the closing dance to be held at the Yacht Club on the same evening.

According to an announcement by the college delegation that attended the International Relations Society conference at Pullman, Wash., for the promotion of world peace, next year's conference will be held in this city, at the invitation of the college representatives. James Colbert and Mun Hope, who attended the conference, will give a description of their activities to the entire student body on Wednesday.

After playing a full season of badminton, the college team has reached the finals of the Lower Island Badminton League. In the first game of the finals at the Willows courts the visiting Cowichan Lake team were defeated 10 to 6.

The Students' Christian Movement Society wound up its activities for the year at a special business meeting as Ernest Bishop, president, announced final plans for the existing membership. According to this report, a delegation of ten members will be sent to the S.C.M. spring camp, while every effort will be made to send a delegation to the Pacific area conference at Berkeley, California.

Omega Tau Gamma, the club for out-of-towners, will hold a special meeting to make preparations for their picnic at the termination of the examinations.

The college area is taking over a new atmosphere as the final examinations are fast approaching. Baseball and all other forms of amusement on the campus have been forbidden, as students are expected to be studying. Clubs will cease their activities on the coming week, while there will be no social activities until after the examinations, when the Alma Mater Society picnic and the closing dance will take place.

CLUB STAGES BIRTHDAY PARTY

Henry C. Hall, K.C., and W. M. Halliday, retired magistrate and Indian agent at Alert Bay delivered the orations at the Pacific Club's birthday party and banquet celebrating the forty-second anniversary of the institution's founding.

President Clifford Denham in a toast urged members to prove their loyalty by sticking to their club and told of the improvements made in the institution during the last six months.

Mr. Hall, in proposing the toast to "The Province," told how lawyers were trying to simplify legal practice, and contrasted practice of sixty years ago with today. In reviewing the Farmer Creditors' Arrangement Act, he paid tribute to the work of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, Robert McKee and George Heggie in assisting the farmer to stay on the land.

Mr. Halliday, with his own background of sixty-three years' residence in British Columbia, lauded the pioneers of those days, because no matter how great the natural resources of the province, they were of little worth without the human element. Declaring that what was wanted in the people of today was something of the sense of humor possessed by the pioneers, Mr. Halliday recounted instances of that early humor.

Among the artists contributing to the evening's entertainment programme were: Cecil Heaton, B. Brown, Thomas Kelway, A. Dendoff, Fred C. Elliott, James Kerr, Leonard Foster, Captain Ralph Berrill, George Naden and J. C. M. Keith.

ST. LUKE'S TROOP

The weekly meeting of the St. Luke's Troop was held last Friday. Scoutmaster A. Annett opened the meeting with flag-break and inspection. After inspection, P.L. Frank Wells and Troop Leader M. Bissenden were presented with their ambulance badges. M. Bissenden also received his leader's shoulder knots. Stave drill, signalling and boxing instruction were carried on until dismissal. At the Court of Honor it was proposed and carried that Frank Wells be made troop instructor, and R. Gilchrist be made patrol leader of the Owls. Parents are reminded that on Monday, April 6, a social will be held in the St. Luke's Hall, Cedar Hill Road, at 7.30 p.m.

Civic Group Will Hold Dance Friday

The Civic Employees' Federation will hold the second of its dances and social evenings of the season at the fire department headquarters on Friday evening.

Bert Zala's orchestra will furnish music during the evening and refreshments will be served.

Chiropodists Not To Be "Doctors"

Chiropodists will not be able to call themselves by the title of "doctor" in British Columbia. In the Legislature on Saturday a section of the Chiropodists' Act conferring this power was withdrawn after objections were raised. The chiropodists were also refused the right to limit advertising and prohibit advertising of prices for their treatment. Attorney-General Sloan declared this was going too far on regimentation.

PARTY FLIES TO MAINLAND

Central Films Staff In Chilliwack Today Seeking Locations

In search of locations for the outdoor scenes of "Gunsmoke," western picture which was temporarily shelved a month ago on account of the weather, five members of the production staff of Central Films Limited left by chartered plane on Saturday for Chilliwack and returned yesterday.

With only one more outdoor sequence—a single afternoon's work—and one indoor shot—a matter of a few minutes—remaining to be made to complete "Secret Patrol," mounted police picture, Mr. Bishop was this morning roundly scoring the vagaries of the weather.

Every day's delay is costing the movie company exactly $600, and there have already been many workless days.

On Friday a party from the company went out to Brentwood to fish Mr. and Mrs. Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starrett led the party gaily out of the lobby of the Dominion Hotel, with promises of a fish diet for the whole company for the next week. An hour later it started snowing. They returned with wet clothes and seven grilse.

DRAMA FESTIVAL NEW CLASSES

Widespread interest is being taken this year in the Provincial Drama Festival, to be held in Victoria April 27 till May 2 inclusive.

Several new classes and prizes have been introduced this year, including a popularity award, which will go to the group presenting the play that receives the most votes from the audiences during the week. This will not necessarily go to the play that wins the Provincial Challenge Cup, as the adjudicator's opinion and that of the audience often differ.

A handsome solid silver rose bowl has been presented by Currie and Gillespie Ltd., for this new class.

The committee is fortunate in securing as adjudicator, Miss Nellie Cornish, founder and managing director of the Cornish School, Seattle.

Miss Cornish is now in New York visiting some of her pupils who are on the professional stage. Later she will visit Pasadena to review the work of the Community Theatre before returning to Seattle. Miss Cornish has had a long and varied experience as a dramatic critic and adjudicator.

This year the Pacific Drama Conference will be held in Victoria on the last day of the festival.

The programme will open with a breakfast for playwriters, at which a number of dramatists from all over the province will speak briefly about their work. This will be followed by a morning session, 9.30 till noon, at which guest speakers will be featured. Professor Glen Hughes, director of the drama division, University of Washington, will speak. Also Pamelia P. Jones, state organizer, works progress administration, Washington. Also the president of the Spokane Little Theatre, and several other well-known speakers will deal with various aspects of drama.

The festival will be officially opened by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Premier, on Monday, April 27.

Mayor Leeming will be the guest of honor, and will speak on Tuesday and on Saturday Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, will be the guest of honor and will address the audience.

Receptions are being arranged for the out-of-town guests, those on the reception committee being: Miss Kathleen Agnew (chairman), Princess Chikhmatoff, Mrs. G. M. Weir, Mrs. H. R. Beaven, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson and Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe.

Sale of Beer And Wine Is Opposed

The members of the club unanimously passed a resolution expressing their disapproval of the petition recently submitted to the government to sell beer and wine in hotels and restaurants. The group was decidedly opposed to any acceleration whatever of this trade.

The main feature of the evening was the instructive talk on "Health Insurance" presented by Miss B. Jenkins. At the conclusion of the business period Mrs. Archie Wills and Miss J. Duncan rendered vocal solos of Irish folk lore, which were much enjoyed.

A social half hour, with the serving of refreshments, brought the meeting to a close.

The next meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. J. Crozier Smith, 1121 Faithful Street, on Friday evening.

Canadian Press From Havas

Tokio, March 30.—Japanese authorities have decided to confiscate two Soviet ships which sought shelter in the forbidden zone of Tsuruga Bay, deport their passengers and prosecute the skippers, it was understood today.

The steamship Suchan and the 1,773-ton freighter, Dvina, out of Vladivostok, are involved.

The Soviet vice-consul at Hakodate has taken up the affair with authorities of the Aomori region, who have jurisdiction over the zone.

First United will this year be the scene of choral and vocal contests, with piano, string and elocution classes, as well as some vocal competitions, allotted to the Metropolitan Institute. The folk dancing events, which are not scheduled to begin until Friday afternoon, will be staged at Victoria High School.

T. Yacamini, founder and conductor of the Madrigal Choir of Perth, Scotland; Mrs. Jean Campbell of Winnipeg, who has adjudicated in the elocution classes here for several years, and Professor Robert Jarman director of Physical Education with the Winnipeg School Board, who judged the folk dancing section last year.

World's Largest Sign Now Works

Electric Advertising One City Block Long Brightens "Gay White Way" of New York

Canadian Press

New York, March 30.—The largest electric advertising sign in the world—it is a city-block long—is blinking its sales talk over Broadway and making the "Gay White Way" whiter than ever.

The prosaic statistics are: The sign weighs 110 tons; contains almost seventy miles of insulated wire and 1,084 feet of acid-lit tubing; has 29,508 lamp receptacles (a few of which failed to light when the sign had its debut Saturday) and cost a little less than $1,000,000.

In contrast to most of the rapidly-flashing sign along Broadway's staggering length, the new giant has a leisurely tempo. Tropical fish, some of them longer than a railroad box-car, swim about the central figure and blow bubbles from their mouths.

GOVERNOR AT ALPINE CAMP

Edmonton, March 30.—Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, has been invited to attend the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada and is expected to accept the invitation, it was learned here today. According to C. G. Wates, prominent Alpine Club member here, Lord Tweedsmuir has long been an enthusiastic mountaineer in the Old Country. The date of the summer camp of the Alpine Club is being withheld pending definite word from the Governor-General.

Early Spring Flower Display

Lord Tweedsmuir Patron of Vancouver Island Show

Lord Tweedsmuir, G.C.M.G., C.H., Governor-General of Canada, has accepted the office of patron of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Society's show.

Because of this patronage, special exhibts of early spring flowers favored by Lord Tweedsmuir will be displayed in the annual Spring Flower Festival to be held here on Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25 at the Willows Fair Grounds.

With the definite trend of spring in the air, flowers are beginning to grow quickly and in the four weeks remaining before the show opens some grand exhibits of the earlier flowers will have been arranged by demonstrators.

This year floral displays will be seen in the Main Building at the Fair Grounds from many up-island horticultural societies which are affiliated with the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association, sponsors of the event. Ladysmith, Alberni, Bamberton, Comox, Cowichan, and other island centres have all stated their intention of being present at the annual event.

As an added feature and following the custom of last year, those gardens which have brought for Victoria world-wide publicity and prominence for their grace and beauty, will be thrown open to the public for the week immediately prior to the two-day show.

Officials of the horticultural society who are arranging the show, are also planning to have a programme of entertainment staged during the afternoon and evening of both days.

It was explained that the show was designed not only for enjoyment purposes but also to demonstrate the latest methods in horticultural developments which might be of interest to all Victoria gardeners.

Patent Is Granted For Earwig Trap

F. W. Webb, 1126 Balmoral Road, has been granted a patent by the Dominion Government for the earwig trap which he introduced last year and which proved very successful in catching this destructive pest.

The traps are constructed of cedar, the earwigs being attracted by the odor which is a bait in itself. They should be set in warm, shady places on the edge of lawns and gardens, or hung along the branches of fruit trees where earwigs are often found.

The traps can be emptied by tapping them over a fire or hot water or on a flat place where the insects may be destroyed and when this operation is carried out no earwigs can possibly remain inside owing to the inner shape of the trap.

VICTORIA HELPS JUBILEE FETE

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau will co-operate with Vancouver in exploiting its golden jubilee celebrations and at the same time will draw the attention of prospective visitors to the attractions of Vancouver Island.

To five hundred travel bureaus through which it has its publicity literature circulated in Canada, United States and Mexico, the bureau will send pamphlets of Vancouver's golden jubilee.

With the pamphlets will also be sent the printed circular, "Mayor Leeming Introduces Victoria, B.C.," which sets out industrial and holiday features of Vancouver Island.

SITE CHOICE UNDER FIRE

Vancouver Member Says City Broke Faith on New Hall

Charging that Mayor G. G. McGeer and the Vancouver City Council had broken faith with the Legislature and the people on the question of choosing a site for Vancouver's city hall site, Gordon Wismer, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, delayed passage in the Legislature Saturday of the Vancouver Enabling Act to finally validate baby bond sales.

Mr. Wismer was supported in his attack by Mrs. D. G. Steeves, C.C.F., North Vancouver, and R. H. Pooley, Independent, Esquimalt. The result was that the baby bond clause was stood over for consideration later.

"This legislation endorses a deliberate breach of faith," the Vancouver member declared. "I am opposing it."

"Will you take the responsibility of stopping work already begun on the city hall site," demanded Premier Pattullo.

"I will," Wismer retorted. "The city hall in my opinion is now being built on a very undesirable site."

Mr. Wismer recalled that when the baby bonds question was before the private bills committee last year Mrs. Steeves had raised the question where the hall would be built.

"We had the assurance from the mayor and two aldermen that all parties would be consulted. Nothing of the kind took place. The ratepayers were ignored. This act validates the sale of bonds in a way that is illegal."

The city council had double-crossed the private bills committee, the Legislature and the people of Vancouver, declared Mrs. Steeves. The town-planning commission, the only body with expert knowledge, had been ignored.

Face Clear Again With Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Here is a letter every skin sufferer should read. Its message is vital. "Pimples affected my face and neck and at times would turn nearly as big as boils. They would itch and burn something terrible. I had to scratch and that made them worse, and they were unsightly to look at.

"But after using 3 cakes of Cuticura Soap and 2 boxes of Cuticura Ointment, my face was clear again." (Signed) Mr. R. Robar 34 Compton Avenue, Halifax, N.S. Physicians can understand such letters. Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliott

"That's why she left?"

"Mainly," Violet said rather angrily. The man was either a consummate actor or else he was sincere. But when she had told Stanley and Adrianson her theory of his possible loss of memory, a week or two before, they had laughed at her. Adrianson was preparing the annulment papers at the moment.

"She must think me a thorough rotter," Michael groaned.

"I'm afraid she does." Men, Violet reflected, ought to pay a little for their treatment of women.

* * *

He looked at her. "I didn't remember a thing," he told her simply. "You knew—and didn't she hear it?—that I was hurt in a taxi accident?"

"We did. But it didn't sound serious. She called the hospital and was told you were getting on all right. Then you came home, and neither telephoned nor tried to see her. One day you passed her on the street without speaking—"

"I did?"

"You did," Violet said, steeling herself against the impulse to comfort the boy. He put his head into his hands and groaned. Stanley came back into the room.

"We were going through a rehearsal tonight," Michael went on, glancing from one to the other. "I was to marry Sally Moon. Someone said the words of the ceremony—more as a joke than anything. I felt as though I'd been struck by lightning. The whole thing came back to me."

Violet looked accusingly at her husband. "I told you so!"

"Lucky it happened in time," Stanley drawled. "You'd have been in a pretty fix."

"Do you think I don't realize it?" Michael wanted to know. "I meant that night I went to New York to have the whole matter of the inheritance straightened out and to announce our marriage at once. My engagement to Sally had been a crazy affair; she didn't really want it. It was just an impulse on Sally's part. But afterward—"

"That was about it."

"Well, thank God, it's no worse than it is," murmured Violet philosophically. "Katharine has been hurt—but not permanently, I hope. Whether or not she'll want to let the marriage stand, of course, is another matter."

Stanley, halting over the words, told Michael that legal steps were already being taken to dissolve the bond.

He paled. "Sorry she did it, eh?"

"You can't blame her for having a second thought on it," Violet cried, coming to her friend's defence. "You scarcely made it a success at the start—although I admit now that it wasn't your fault."

He stared at them both. "Well, I'll be pushing along. Thanks for bothering with me."

Violet's ready pity went out to him. He looked so young and troubled! Her woman's perceptions told her what a wretched time he must have gone through at the Moon's. And she believed his whole, preposterous story. It was too fantastic not to be true.

"Katharine's at Silencia, a sort of hotel at Roanne, New Mexico," she blurted on an impulse.

"Thank you." He wrote it down. After he had gone Stanley said gravely to his wife, "I don't think you should have told him where she is. It may make trouble. Adrianson thinks she should carry the thing through. We don't want to meddle."

Violet concealed her own grave misgivings at this breach of confidence. "I'll take all the blame, if there is any," she told her husband. "I couldn't see him go off like that. He looked so wild—so desperate. I wouldn't have slept tonight . . ."

* * *

A young man in worn tweeds, carrying a shabbly bag, boarded a west-bound train at Pennsylvania station that night. He stayed up rather late in the writing-room. Two of his notes were posted at Manhattan Transfer. One was to Mrs. Stanley Merser, the other to Miss Sally Moon of Innicock, New York.

Then he went to bed and tossed uneasily in the narrow Pullman.

In Chicago he decided to take a plane for the rest of the journey. No passenger ships had left New York the night before because of bad weather conditions. But the rain and blowing cold fogs had been left behind in Ohio.

Michael had never been in a plane before. Below him the familiar country spread out like a checkerboard. He drew a long breath, stretching his legs in the cramped seat. It was good to have this sense of spaciousness again . . .

In Santa Fe he left the ship. There was a jerkwater train to Roanne or there were cars to be had. It was a matter of fifty miles. Michael burned with impatience. The train was not due to leave for an hour.

He jingled the coins in his pockets as the driver of a rackety-looking sedan came around the corner. Yes, he would drive Michael to Roanne; no trouble at all. Silencia? Certainly, he was well acquainted with the place. A beautiful spot. The gentleman would enjoy it.

* * *

The roads left something to be desired. In some places they were deeply rutted. It was a short route they were taking, the driver ingratiatingly explained.

Michael raged at the stops. The engine was an old one; more than once the radiator had to be reinforced by water which Sebastian carried in a tin kerosene can on the front seat. The day grew very hot—unbearably hot.

Michael knew the very words he would say to the fair-haired girl he was seeking. He could scarcely believe that she had been, for an instant one day, his wife in the eyes of God and the law. He had forgotten, if ever he had known it, that life could be so good.

This fellow probably was riding him all over God-knew-where to collect a fare. . . . Michael fumed at the thousand and one delays.

But at long last, the single narrow street of Roanne loomed up out of the desert. And half a mile out of town they saw the creamy walls of a long, low adobe house.

CHAPTER XL

Katharine hadn't wanted, really, to go on the motor trip with the Millard's. Dirk Millard and his handsome, resourceful, managing Hilda had been very insistent, however. It was to be a two-day picnic in the mountains. Oh, but they often did it! And they were going east soon—Dirk was having a show on Fifth Avenue, and this would be their last chance. Miss Strykhurst really must come. Evelyn Vincent, too. Frank Millard, Dirk's big, handsome brother, a football player at Berkeley, was going along. Frank had "fallen for" Katharine, Hilda said enthusiastically. The party would simply be spoiled if Katharine did not come.

More to please Evelyn than for any other reason, the girl had consented. Frank Millard's attentions were not unpleasant; indeed, she found herself liking the big fellow with the rich, scalloped, golden hair and the beautiful profile.

She went.

They had tents and bedding rolls; they had a de luxe equipment of cups and plates and spoons and forks, all neatly fitted into a great leather case strapped on the side of the big touring car. There was space in the trunk at the back for their few bags. It was all very gay and casual and Bohemian.

After the sun of Roanne the green of the mountains was cool and grateful. Streams tinkled in unexpected places. Dirk broiled bacon and made coffee and Hilda asked Frank to open jars of caviar and produced salted crackers and jellies from nowhere. A de luxe picnic.

BODY OF AGED MAN IS FOUND

Canadian Press

Princeton, B.C., March 30.—A five-month search for seventy-three-year-old James Alexander Bombard has been ended. The body of the aged man was found Saturday on the bank of the Tulameen River above the site of the Princeton Waterworks pumping station.

Bombard disappeared November 2. Search parties hunted for him, but their work was made difficult by cold weather and snow.

It is believed he started out to visit friends, and collapsed in the secluded spot where the body was found.

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

As I have said repeatedly in these articles on diet, milk is the most nearly perfect food. Different types of animals produce different kinds of milk, so that milk must be used with the understanding of what it provides.

Under state laws, production nowadays is controlled as to sanitation of the stables, care of the cows, and similar considerations.

Dr. M. Fishbein

Certified milk is that which is regularly studied by a properly appointed medical group and declared to be safe. Nowadays, it is customary to pasteurize even certified milk.

Pasteurization involves the heating of milk to a temperature of from 140 to 145 degrees Fahrenheit, and holding it at this temperature for twenty to thirty minutes. This destroys any bacteria or germs which may be in the milk and which might transmit disease.

Latest figures show that we get about 191 quarts of milk to a person each year, which is about half of the amount we ought to get in a healthful diet. Nevertheless, the full diet amount is increasing, since we had only 154 quarts a year in 1933.

Many people have been worrying whether pasteurized milk provides all the essentials available in raw milk. Controlled studies made under hospital conditions indicate that the growth-promoting capacity of heated milk is not measurably less than that of raw milk.

Of course, the best food for a very young baby is the milk of its mother, or when that is not available, the milk of some other mother. In the absence of breast milk, cow's milk, properly modified, may be used.

Different types of milk vary, as I have said, according to the types of cow or other animal from which they come. The milk of Jersey cows, generally, is richest in fat. This is followed by Guernsey, Durham, Ayrshire, and Holstein, varying from about 5.19 per cent fat for the first to 3.43 for the last.

Milk varies also according to the food which the cow receives, the the season of year, and the time and completeness of milking. Usually the milk of well-kept cows is richer in cool weather than in warm weather, and richer on rich, dry food than when the cow is on pasture.

The amount of vitamins contained in milk varies also in relation to the feeding of the cow, the amount of sunshine available, and similar factors.

TODAY'S HEALTH QUESTION

Q.—Does cod liver oil prevent colds? Is pig liver as good as any other for anaemia?

A.—Cod liver oil is not a specific preventive for colds. It is a valuable article of food and helps to maintain the body in good condition and to increase one's resistance to infection of any sort.

I am not aware that any examination has been made of the relative efficiency of pig liver as compared with that of other animals, but it is reasonable to suppose that it is as effective in the treatment of anaemia as any other liver.

MISS I. PENZER LOVELY BRIDE

Married Saturday at St. Mary's to Mr. Allan Robertson of Hope

One of the prettiest weddings of the Lenten season was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, on Saturday evening when Canon A. E. de L. Nunns united in marriage Inez Louise, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril J. Penzer, 57 Wellington Avenue, and Mr. Douglas Allan Robertson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robertson of Victoria, and Hongkong.

Entering the church with her father to the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus played by Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, the church organist, the bride was a radiant figure in her lovely gown of lustrous white satin, with a slight train, over which she wore a Medici-collared, long-sleeved jacket of suede lace which extended at the back into a graceful lace train.

The veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms to shoulder length, and in place of the conventional bouquet she carried a white vellum prayer book with white satin streamers showered with lily of the valley and freesias.

The bridesmaids, Miss Bernice Penzer, sister of the bride, and Miss Audrey Jost, were dressed alike in picturesque frocks of daffodil yellow net, made with the new double-breasted bodices with deep revers, and very full sleeves and skirts. Their Colonial headdresses of frilled yellow net were trimmed at the back with clusters of violets and tied at the back of their heads with violet velvet ribbon, and they carried Colonial bouquets of mauve sweet peas and pink carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. Harold Parfitt, and acting as ushers were Mr. George Turner and Mr. David S. Mowat.

After the service, a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Penzer receiving the guests in a gown of midnight blue georgette and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations, and a large picture hat of matching straw trimmed with forget-me-nots.

The reception rooms were attractive with plumblossom and daffodils. On the supper table with its handsome lace cloth, the wedding cake was set in folds of pink tulle, flanked with tall rose candles in silver holders, and vases of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson left for a brief honeymoon in Seattle and Vancouver, before making their home at Hope, B.C. The bride traveled in a smart tailored suit of brown Harris tweed, with a tailored rose-silk shirtwaist and brown accessories, over which was worn a Hudson seal coat.

The church was prettily decorated with spring flowers in yellow and white, Mrs. Leonard Shepherd, aunt of the bridegroom, was at the organ. During the service, the congregation sang the hymn "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

Given in marriage by her mother, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Ingledew, the bride wore a smart fish-tail swagger suit of brown and sand check, with hat and accessories to match, and a corsage bouquet of pale pink carnations. Her only attendant was Miss Ellen Shepherd, sister of the bridegroom, in a becoming suit of pale grey with black accessories. Mr. W. Peers Arthur supported the bridegroom.

Later a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Cloverdale, the reception rooms being decorated with a profusion of spring flowers in yellow and white.

The vast series of Sunday morning parades will be marked by the most varied floral accents the fashion world has used in years.

Bright blossoms from field, garden and hothouse bloom on hats, necklines, lapels or waistlines in many costumes designed for Easter wear and numerous printed frocks are splashed all over with flowers.

Daisies perch under the brim of a sailor and buttercups rim the crown of an inverted "May basket" hat. Bold, bright anemones are poised at the throatline of frocks, cornflowers are worn as boutonnieres and tulips thrust into belts.

Many frocks for Easter are sheer black georgettes or crepes splashed with coral and ivory daisies, jade and white leaves or rose, mauve and green anemones. There also are a number of dark coat dresses with printed floral crepe vestees and skirt insets or wind-round printed scarfs.

FUR BANISHED

The coats which will top many dresses bear the stamp of 1936. Most of them are simple in effect, though complicated in cut. Fur is almost banished as a trim.

Suits will step out, too, in great variety on Easter, bright flowered challis blouses and scarfs, plaid wool waistcoats, pique vests and colored linen shirts will appear.

Accessories will be novel and amusing. New shoes are made in such interesting combinations as gabardine and calf. Stockings — sometimes ribbed, sometimes plain—have taken on a sunburnt cast. Gloves appear in suedes and doeskins to match the color of floral accents or the more sober hue of shoes. Watches in crystal and leather cases dangle as lapel fobs, or are embedded in the cuffs of gloves or the front of handbags.

LITTLE AND BIG EGGS

Sarnia, Ont., March 30 (Canadian Press).—Laid by a Barred Rock hen, an egg about the size of a thumbnail was found by Mrs. Roy Elmes, Blenheim Township. It weighed but a fraction of an ounce. In contrast, another she gathered from a Leghorn pullet measured eight and one-quarter inches by six and a quarter. It weighed four ounces.

Winning Hands

HANDS that win are hands that are soft and lovely. Fortunately keeping them that way isn't difficult. A tiny dab of Pacquin's after each drying and the skin instantly becomes fresher and fairer, the hands smooth and graceful. Pacquin's Hand Cream goes right into the skin, nourishing, softening and whitening it. No sticky film such as lotions leave but a fine, clear, silken finish. For younger-looking, more appealing hands, use Pacquin's Hand Cream.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

QUANTITY OF SUGAR IN FORMULA SHOULD BE ADAPTED TO INDIVIDUAL'S NEED

Sugar is an exceedingly important element of all bottle formulas and its amounts greatly influence both the baby's appetite, his satisfaction with the formula and its laxative effect.

There are rather definite amounts of both milk and water needed by the baby for his development. But the amount of sugar in the formula can be adjusted according to the way the baby reacts to it.

Sometimes, when the milk and water element of the formula are right, the mother discovers that, for some mysterious reason, the baby won't accept his formula. When this happens, try reducing the sugar element by a tablespoonful or so, and note what happens.

TOO MUCH—TOO LITTLE

The baby may be getting one and one-half ounces of corn syrup—let us suppose—or four and one-half level tablespoonfuls of some other sugar, and the mother would discover that, with only three tablespoonfuls, a robust appetite would develop.

It may be that the very opposite problem is presenting itself. The baby is getting all the milk and water needed to supply his needs and yet he cannot be satisfied. He drains eight ounces of formula and wants more, which he should not have. A slight, or generous, increase in the amount of sugar may make this formula so satisfying as to make it possible for the baby to wait his full four hours, or sleep all night without restless and fretful demands for food.

LAXATIVE EFFECT

Sugar has a very marked influence on the laxative qualities of a formula. A formula containing large quantities of milk without any sugar may cause hard, constipated stools of a greyish white color. The addition of sugar is immediately effective.

Knowing this, we may assume that, when diarrhoea is present, sugar should be subtracted from the formula. My leaflet on "Sweet Milk Formulas" offers the ordinary amounts of sugar, which may be diminished or increased as the mother notes the baby's reaction to it. To obtain the leaflet, send a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Group Living Theme of "Y" Girls' Conference

Miss H. Hobrecker, National Secretary, and Dean Quainton Speakers at Successful Week-end Rally

Pointing to the Y.W.C.A. as a training ground for learning group living, Miss Hedwig Hobrecker, national general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., speaking at a week-end conference at the local association, encouraged her audience of young women not to be pressed back into the limited family circle, but to take their place in seeking the next step in the new development of community living.

SENSE OF VALUES

In keeping with the theme of the conference, which went under the name of "Y-ways and High-ways," Miss Hoebrecker spoke on "Acquiring a Sense of Values." She referred particularly to the value of group thinking and living, an experience which has been in force for only a few years.

The Y.W.C.A., she suggested, offers a fine opportunity for acquiring this sense of values in group living, the girls, first experiencing the smaller groups, then in conference and possibly as board members. The next step might be to represent the Y.W.C.A. in different civic bodies, or even in Parliament.

Women, she maintained, have a definite contribution to make, in that their minds are different from men's. They could be of value in helping to run a country, or in international contacts, making a world contribution.

"Y" TRAINING GROUND

Miss Hoebrecker turned then to the programme of the Y.W.C.A. as the basis for such training in group living.

"You want discussion which will help you in solving problems and help put religious principles into practice," she said. A group of students or girls in an industrial plant might be invited to discuss things. She pointed also to the problem of getting non-church members to feel that they had a place in the church.

"Your programme must evolve out of your own thinking as girls," she advised, stressing the value of time for fun and recreation, with a trained person to direct games, and the importance of the religious part, for which there must be adequate leaders.

As aids to achieve this programme Miss Hoebrecker emphasized harmonious thinking. She advocated staunch courage in seeing a project through, instead of being dampened by other people's opinions too easily.

GROUP DISCUSSION

Mrs. W. E. Cushing, general secretary, introduced the theme. Miss Hoebrecker also took part in the discussion groups which further developed the theme, and in which the girls also participated enthusiastically.

The impressive atmosphere of a campfire was provided at the supper hour when the girls were invited to the gymnasium where evergreen branches formed a realistic background for the "campfire" around which they sat.

At the conclusion of supper Miss Sheila Boyd gave an entertaining and instructive talk on marionettes, showing some of the designs which she had drawn and also demonstrating with two marionettes, much to the pleasure of her audience. She traced the history of marionettes and spoke of the new interest in this form of art which is beginning to make inroads in Canada.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

The afternoon meeting was presided over by Miss Edna Teagle, president of the Senior Business Girls' Club. The programme included solos by Miss Winnifred Elliott, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Harper, who also played piano numbers; vocal solo by Miss Esme Wood, accompanied by Miss Violet Mylres, and choral numbers by the Y-Owenca Club.

In the evening Miss Violet Mylres, president of the Girls' Council, presided and Mrs. H. M. Cassidy, president of the Board of Directors, introduced Miss Hoebrecker. The vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Miss Willena Graham.

The Sunday programme included luncheon at the Y.W.C.A. following church service at Metropolitan United Church. Afternoon tea was served by the girls' committee of which Mrs. Richard Felton is convener, following the afternoon meeting, presided over by Miss Dorothy Doidge, vice-president of the Girls' Council. Miss Phyllis Deaville was the soloist.

DEAN SPEAKS

Dean Quainton, also speaking on values, dealt with them as physical, intellectual and spiritual. The Christian view of matter is that it is sacramental, and in that light all the powers of the human body, including sex, are in themselves good. A Christian, to be most effective should keep fit physically, be careful about digestion, sleep and exercise, he assurred his audience.

"It is desirable to have a quiet half-hour every day," suggested the Dean, relating the beauty of the inner life to the outer expression. "Then you review problems in God's presence. It will chase away wrinkles and keep you young in body mind."

The speaker stressed the importance of the intellect, in every undertaking, in relation, in voting and in the pursuit of education after school days are over.

"Keep one good stiff book on hand per year," suggested the Dean.

"It keeps your mind fresh. The children who profit most from our present educational system are the ones who come from homes where parents are carrying on their own education."

SPIRITUAL DOCTOR

He referred to the spiritual side of human nature as the most significant, and pointed out that everyone knew in their innermost souls that Christian character was the finest thing in the world.

"Are we willing to let God have His way with us?" asked the Dean, contending that, the chief difficulty was not the grosser sins but pride, which he considered the greatest sin in the world.

"It would do some of us good to go to a good spiritual doctor," he suggested, closing with a further plea to be Christ-centred rather than self-centred.

At the morning service in Metropolitan Church, the girls from the Y.W.C.A. occupied special reserved pews. Rev. E. F. Church, the minister, preached a challenging sermon from the story of the wedding feast, pointing out that the same indifference was apparent today, and urging young people to get into activity and lead the world in finding the Kingdom of God.

LUCREZIA BORI IN FAREWELL

Metropolitan Diva Ends Opera Career; Historic Jewel Presented

Canadian Press

New York, March 30.—Lucrezia Bori sang her farewell to opera at the Metropolitan Opera House last night, ending a career of twenty-eight years.

It was an occasion of glamour and sentiment. The entire personnel of the "Met" association joined with a distinguished audience in honoring the woman who has done more than any one else in the company that the institution might live.

To Lucrezia Bori:
As a friend—most understanding.
As a woman—adorable.
As a colleague—ideal.
As an artist—irreplaceable.

Even this final performance had as beneficiary the cause nearest to Bori's heart. The proceeds, which amounted to about $16,000, went, at the artiste's request, to the fund to maintain the Metropolitan Opera. She and her colleagues contributed their services.

Miss Bori sang only twice during the evening—at the beginning and the end. First she appeared in the second act of "Traviata" as the Violetta. At the conclusion she was the pleading, irresistible Mannon in the St. Sulpice scene of Massenet's opera.

SCHUBERT CLUB VISITS ST. MARK'S

The Schubert Club gave a delightful concert in St. Mark's Hall recently before a large and appreciative audience, the choir, under the direction of Mr. Frederic King, being in its usual splendid form.

Among the choral numbers were three Schubert numbers, "Hark, Hark the Lark," "Whither" and "To Music," with Miss Swain as soloist in the latter; three negro spirituels, "Didn't it Rain," "Deep River" and "Go Down Moses," and "O, Skylark, for Thy Wing" (Smart); "Sweet and Low" (Plettie); "Nature's Resurrection" (Woodman), and "Song of the Sea" (Stebbins).

Miss Conway and Mrs. Ridgeway sang charming solos, and Mr. Warren contributed trumpet selections. Mrs. Tennant ably acted as accompanist.

"Operators have guaranteed to toss spurs, chaps and ten-gallon hats into the corner and at 4.40 each afternoon don the customary black and white of society homes," he said.

NEW DRY CLEANING METHODS COME AND GO . . .

But Pantorium Standards Remain the Same

The latest "revolutionary" dry cleaning process has no place in our policy of service. Every new method we adopt must have undergone exhaustive tests in research laboratories, must have the approval of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners. Our plant, recognized as one of the most modern in Western Canada, utilizes no process which is not proved in PRACTICE to be of permanent value to our patrons.

Efficiency With Protection

Our use of dry solvents and dry cleaning aids leaves the garments in its original size and shape, with feel and lustre unimpaired and with complete freedom from shrinkage. Newer processes cannot give this protection.

GIRLS DISPLAY GYMNASTICS

St. Margaret's Pupils Present Graceful Exhibition at School

Typifying the excellent results being achieved in class and team work, the pupils of St. Margaret's School staged a most interesting gymnastic and dancing display on Friday evening in the gymnasium, a large and appreciative audience of parents and friends following the programme with enthusiastic interest.

The programme was arranged by Miss Barbara Grant, physical instructress, the gymnastic and dance numbers representing the usual routine work, while the vaulting exhibition was given by girls who volunteered their services for their display, which was splendidly carried out and warmly applauded.

The little ones are always an appealing feature, and the drills and dances by the kindergarten class, particularly the charming dances "Sea Nymphs" and "Elves and Fairies," won instant favor.

English country dances had a prominent place in the programme, the girls of Forms Vb, Va, VI and IV presenting "The Boatman," "The Old Mole," "Confess," "Newcastle," "Adson's Saraband," "The Black Nag," "Piper's Fancy." Other graceful dance numbers included "Doll Dance," a Swedish folk dance, and several Greek dances. "Schubert Study," which had been composed by the girls; "Brahms' Fourth Waltz," "The Ball Dance," "Bow and Arrow Dance," "Brahms' Fifteenth Waltz" and "Whims." Appropriate costumes were worn in each number, adding much to their spectacular appeal. Form III took part in two delightful imaginative dances, "Peter Pan and the Fairies," having been composed by the children, and "Sea Spirits."

Swedish and Danish exercises, the latter performed to music, were carried out with grace and precision, while the team games were also skilfully presented.

Mrs. D. M. Duncan, the principal, spoke briefly at the close of the programme of the work of the physical education department under Miss Grant, and made special mention of the following girls who had done excellent work throughout the year; Juniors, M. Ford, R. Wilkinson, S. Williams, V. McConaghy; seniors, F. Grant, J. Macdonald, P. Craig and B. Lyman. Last year's gymnastic colors had been awarded to P. Hayes, M. Tweedy and R. Williams, and this year the colors were won by W. Pinhorn, P. Woodward and N. Stephens.

Mrs. Duncan and Miss Grant, together with Miss Riley who ably acted as accompanist for the dances and musical drills, were given three hearty cheers by the girls. Miss Grant and Miss Riley also received beautiful bouquets in appreciation of their work.

KING'S GREETINGS FOR PIONEERS

Indian Head, Sask., March 30.—Celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brooks, well-known western pioneers, have received good wishes for the occasion from His Majesty King Edward VIII.

Among hundreds of letters received by the popular pair were others from the lieutenant-governor of the province, Brig.-Gen. Alex. Ross, president of the Canadian Legion, and from friends in Trinidad, B.W.I.

Mr. Brooks is a life member of the legion. The couple were married in Lennoxville, Que., March 14, 1876.

"The greatest wealth we have is the friendship of those about us," said Mr. Brooks during the celebration. "If you want to hold respect, you must live a clean life."

He says he proposes to live to be 100, "or die in the attempt."

AGED WOMAN MISSIONARY

Miss Margaret Young, 79, to Resume Work in Japan

Canadian Press

Chatham, Ont., March 30.—Miss Margaret Young, prominent worker for the Anglican Church in Glencoe despite her seventy-nine years, is looking forward with keen anticipation to her return to Japan in the near future to resume missionary work from which she has been on furlough fourteen years after twenty-six years of service. She will sail from Vancouver for the Orient in a few weeks.

Accompanying her will be John Masatuk Shimizu, whom she brought to Canada as a boy of twelve to be educated when she gave up her work in Magaya in mid-Japan. Now a man of twenty-six, her protege whom she calls Masa Chan, has all the advantages of a western education and is a musician of exceptional talent with the degree of A.T.C.M. conferred upon him by the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

He was educated at the Glencoe high school, and also the Jarvis Street high school in Toronto. Since leaving school, he has devoted most of his studies to music, which he intends to teach on his return. His father died some years ago and his mother is now the wife of a retired Japanese army general.

Miss Young, in an interview, said she was looking forward to returning to her work. Born at Port Burwell, she taught school in Ontario before she left for Japan at the age of twenty-nine. For twenty-six years she was a teacher and pioneered in the work of kindergartens at Nagaya.

ROAD RACES TO ATTRACT MANY

Large Fields For Annual Britannia Branch Events on Good Friday

Entrants who are contemplating participating in the annual road race of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., on Good Friday, are advised that they have only until April 4 to register their entries at the club-rooms, 715, View Street.

A strong contingent for the senior nine-mile run is assured from Archie McKinnon's "Y" runners, and also a number for the junior event, which will cover five miles. Information from the Navy disclosed that some of their crack long-distance men are under training for the senior event.

As yet very few entries have been received for the junior and juvenile events, officials announced, but they are expecting high and public school boys to form the bulk for these entries. Those in charge of the affair are looking forward, however, to a large representation in all the events.

The first race will get under way at 10.30 o'clock in front of the branch headquarters.

In the senior, runners will be competing for the Britannia Branch Perpetual Challenge Cup, which was won last year by the Y.M.C.A. The Victoria Daily Times Perpetual Challenge Cup will be run for in the junior event. E. Geddes, of the Sooke Athletic Association, took the honors last year. The "Y" also took possession of the Hinchliffe Cup last year, symbolic of the two-mile juvenile race.

In previous years, the staging of this classic has never failed to create considerable interest in local circles, and a large crowd has always been on hand to watch the winners come in. Officials boast that the race is the oldest in the history of British Columbia, having been run annually for two decades or more.

KAPLANSKY BACK WITH FIGHTERS

Halifax, March 30.—Kap Kaplansky, Toronto boxing promoter, arrived here on the steamship Montclare accompanied by "Spider" Armstrong whom he managed in England this winter, and left immediately for Toronto.

Kaplansky was manager of Eddie Wenstob, Viking, Alta., before Wenstob left England several months ago. Kaplansky said he had signed a string of English boxers to tour Canada this summer. In England, Kaplansky booked a series of fights for Armstrong and Tommy Bland, claimant of the Canadian lightweight title who returned to the Dominion last fortnight.

ACTION BILL IS WITHDRAWN

At the request of the bar association of Vancouver, Attorney-General Gordon Sloan in the Legislature withdrew a bill dealing with the limitation of court actions.

The measure, he said, involved serious and far-reaching changes in principles of the law and the Vancouver bar association wished to have it stood over for a year. The Victoria bar association had endorsed it. He had no desire to proceed with it when the Vancouver lawyers wished further time to study the change.

ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

Dr. J. C. Thomas and J. Grieder Named For Office at Port Alberni

Port Alberni, March 30.—There was but one nominee for each vacancy on the school board and police commission here. The new office holders were declared elected by acclamation as follows: For school trustee, Dr. J. C. Thomas, proposed by Fred G. Weaver and seconded by E. Homewood; for police commissioner, J. Grieder, proposed by J. A. McGregor and seconded by E. McKenzie.

Plans have been made to form a 20th Century Young Liberal Club of Alberni district, and Alan Chambers, island organizer for the movement, will be present at the inaugural meeting.

Port Alberni Players' Club made their debut at the Eagles' Hall before a capacity audience. Directed by Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Martlew, forty local artists presented "Happy Japan" and "Grand Bazaar." Both presentations were sponsored by the Elks for the children's fund.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dunbar were pleasantly surprised when a group of friends called to wish many happy returns to Mr. Dunbar on his birthday anniversary. He was presented with pipes and tobacco. Contests were enjoyed and prizes won by Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. W. Ruckell, George Richardson and W. Ruckell. Supper was served at a table centred with a birthday cake with lighted candles. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. Gilmour, Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ruckell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Richardson, Mrs. F. Tuttle, Messrs. A. Hamil, B. Swanson and A. Dunbar.

OLYMPICS AND BUFFALO WIN

Advance in International Hockey League Championship Play-offs

Windsor, Ont., March 30.—Surprising though it was, the three-straight victory of Detroit Olympics over Syracuse Stars was not the main topic among International Hockey League followers today. They pointed to another surprise, Buffalo Bison's triumph over Cleveland Falcons.

Bisons, never noted for their offensive strength, swept past the bewildered Falcons by 3 to 1 at Niagara Falls Saturday night and took the second-place play-off round 3 to 2. Few, outside the team itself, had expected them to overcome a 1 to 0 deficit.

At Syracuse yesterday evening, Olympics put the finishing touches to the rout of Syracuse and took a 2 to 1 triumph that put them into the finals. Their opponents for the league championship will be the winner of the Windsor-London series or Buffalo.

Detroit Red Wings Win National Hockey League Title

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

LAST OF THE major attractions on the local rugby horizon will be staged at the Macdonald Park Wednesday afternoon when the touring Stanford University players tackle the Victoria reps. Beaten in their two matches in Vancouver against Varsity and the Rowing Club the Californians will be gunning for the scalps of Coach Ernie Butterworth's boys. Although the local squad will be missing the services of Doug Peden and Wally Stipe, first class replacements have been selected and the Capital City will be represented by a well-balanced fifteen.

* * *

Advance reports of the Stanford club were to the effect that it was twice as strong as the team which came north two years ago. On its showing to date it appears somebody's imagination was stretched a bit too far. Against Varsity the southerners were never in the picture. On Saturday they showed much improvement but still were not in a class with the Rowing Club. From fans who saw one of the two matches in the mainland city we learn that the play of the southerners still suffers from lack of knowledge of the rules of the game. That seems strange seeing that English rugby has been a popular sport at the U.S. college for several years now. With a fine record for the season the Victoria reps will be after a win. Victors in the McKechnie Cup series the club will take no chances of having its success halted by the invaders

After spending months on his back as a result of an injury received while he was refereeing a match, Johnny Pears was back on the job at the wrestling show on Saturday evening. The slim, energetic little official must have what it takes and on top of that he must like the game. After he got back on his feet Pears said he was through as a referee, but he just couldn't keep out of the ring. Saturday evening he got knocked around quite a bit during the Kruse-Chief Little Wolf match, but came out of it all right. Fans who witnessed the show were amazed with the speed in which Little Wolf applies his famous Indian deathlock hold. One just doesn't see him put it on. Kruse turned in his best exhibition here in months on Saturday. The Oswego farmer's string of chatter had the fans in an uproar. Little Wolf appeared to be working under wraps most of the night but it could be easily seen he is a big time performer.

Officials of the Seattle hockey club should pay Frank Foyston a nice big bonus for his great work with their team this season. Taking hold of the club when it was at the bottom of the league standing, Foyston, (who was fired at the start of the season) drove in up the the standings into first place and then won the Northwest Hockey League championship in a play-off with Vancouver Lions. Foyston's success will be well received in this city as the veteran has many friends here through his playing with the Victoria Cougars when they won the Stanley Cup back in the days when this city was on the hockey map in a big way.

Walter Lindrum, world champion English billiards player, who visited Victoria recently during the course of a Canadian tour, is planning to make another invasion of England. One big reason for the tour is finance. For several seasons Lindrum has not made a big income from billiards in Australia. His Canadian tour was a failure and a trip to England is the only way for him to make good his losses.

Horace Lindrum is already in Britain. It was at Glasgow that he achieved his ambition of making a break of 1,000 in the Old Country. He made 1,008 in the good time of fifty-seven minutes.

ESQUIMALT MEAT MARKET IN WIN

Playing smarter ball than their opponents, Esquimalt Meat Market defeated Wimpy's Capitals 3 to 1, Saturday morning, in a Royal Juvenile Football League fixture at Bullen Park.

Capture Third Straight Game From Montreal

Motor City Club Victors 2 to 1 to Enter Stanley Cup Finals

TORONTO LEAFS BEAT AMERICANS

Detroit, March 30.—The Gorman regime in hockey, a two-year job of grade A masterminding by the lean Irishman from Ottawa, was ended today and the challenging field for the Stanley Cup was reduced to three teams—Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans.

Detroit won the National League championship here yesterday evening before a roaring crowd of 13,500, defeating Montreal Maroons 2 to 1 in the third game of the title series. The Red Wings also won the first two at Montreal. They shook down Tommy Gorman's hopes of a third consecutive conquest without bringing suspense into the broad picture.

Desperate in the face of defeat, and still more desperate when Hooley Smith was injured in the first period by a Bucko McDonald bodycheck, Maroons could find nothing in the Gorman book to prevent Jack Adams's starry array of talent from completing the triumph they started last week on Montreal ice.

SECOND TITLE

Red Wings won the N.H.L. title two years ago, but they were beaten in the Stanley Cup series by Chicago Black Hawks, coached by Gorman. Last spring, having moved over to Montreal in the off-season, the Irishman led Maroons to the top. This year Maroons won the Canadian section for the first time in five years.

Either Toronto or Americans, who play the second game of their semi-final tomorrow night at New York, will have Red Wings in the classic cup series. Should the Leafs overcome Red Dutton's team in two straight games, it was believed the best of five finals would start here Thursday night, with the second game Sunday.

Eager to end the title tussle, the Red Wings opened all their offensive batteries yesterday evening after spotting Maroons a goal in the first period. For the first time in the series they were behind, and for the first time in the series they flashed a full-bloomed attack. The Maroons' defence wobbled at the first impact.

When Herbie Lewis, Marty Barrie and Larry Aurie finished driving holes in the back division, Adams sent out Syd Howe, Gordon Pettinger and Hec Kilrea, who were equally successful. Johnny Sorrel, Wally Kilrea and Modere Bruneteau also outplayed the opposition.

TOO MUCH SPEED

There was too much speed and aggressiveness in the Detroit lineup for a Maroon machine that sadly needed Hooley Smith. When Hooley was flattened in the first period and his already lame back injured so he could not continue, Montreal's most potent scoring weapon was lost.

After Gus Marker finished a brilliant three-man rush with Herbie Cain and Bob Gracie in the first period by scoring the only Maroon goal of the series, the big red team was always outplayed. Maroons fell back to defend the lead and held on until the fourteen-minute mark in the second period.

Then Sorrel scored the tying goal, slipping inside the Wentworth-Evans defence to take a final pass from Wally Kilrea and beat Lorne Chabot from close range. The pair passed the puck back and forth three times to get on the scoring mark. Early in the third period Detroit clinched it with a ganging attack. Barry and Aurie carried the rubber into the Maroons goalmouth, and after two stabs had been turned back by Chabot the puck came out to Scotty Bowman, who batted it in.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Maroons, Marker (Cain, Gracie) 12.02.
Penalty—Kelly.
Second period—2, Detroit, Sorrell (W. Kilrea) 14.00.
Penalty—Lamb.
Penalties—None.

Toronto, March 30.—Conny Smythe and his Toronto Maple Leafs hockey machine today were confident they would face Detroit Red Wings for the Stanley Cup, but refused to consider lightly their only obstacle—New York Americans.

The big blue team had to go all out to trim Americans 3 to 1 in the first game of a best-of-three series

LARGE MITTS ARE BANNED

Commissioner Landis Rules Out "Butterfly Net" Gloves of First Sackers

Chicago, March 30.—The American League's four top fielding first basemen last year will have to operate without aid and comfort from those "butterfly net" mitts this season.

No more will Jimmy Foxx, Boston Red Sox; Hank Greenberg, the world champion Detroit Tigers' big slugger; Hal Trosky, Cleveland, and Zebe Bonura—if he ever gets around to signing a contract with Chicago White Sox—use mitts big enough to hold grapefruit. For, at the request of the clubowners, Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis has laid down definite restrictions on size.

From now on, first baseman may use mitts measuring not more than twelve inches from top to bottom, and eight inches across the palm. Also, the lacing between thumb and palm must not measure more than four inches and "shall not be enlarged, extended or reinforced by any process or material, whatever."

SOFTBALLERS ELECT HEADS

W. Pike, Vancouver, New President of B.C. Association; Reports Heard

W. Pike, Vancouver, on Saturday replaced E. L. Stocks, Victoria, as president of the British Columbia Softball Association at that organization's annual meeting here.

The complete slate officers follow: Honorary president, Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie; honorary vice-presidents, Mayor David Leeming, Hon. A. Wells Gray, M.P.P., and W. H. Scale, Cobble Hill; past president, E. L. Stocks, Victoria; president, W. Pike, Vancouver; first vice-president, J. A. Knight, Nanaimo; second vice-president, W. A. Smythe, New Westminster; third vice-president, F. E. Oliver, Victoria; secretary-treasurer, H. R. "Bert" Davidson, Vancouver.

The meeting passed a resolution calling for a provincial play-off series for senior B teams similar to those staged for senior A squads since the inception of the body.

Amendments of by-laws was made to give the British Columbia association full power in the appointment of umpires for semi-finals and finals in the provincial playoffs.

BASE RUNNING CHANGED

Rule seventy-one, section, one of the British Columbia Softball Association was changed to read as follows: "A base runner is entitled to advance at his own risk until such times that both the pitcher and batter be in their respective positions, and the pitcher has the ball in his possession, then the runner shall hold his base until after ball has left the pitcher's hand."

Reports from the retiring president and from Bert Davidson, secretary-treasurer, were heard and approved. The latter stated the play-offs had been highly successful last year those in the Capital being particularly noteworthy from a revenue point of view.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Selma Lagerlof won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1909, and five years later was elected to the Swedish Academy—the only woman ever so honored. Residents of the Varmland district where she lived sent her a deluge of birthday mail. So much that after it was delivered in a special railway mail car, secretaries were busy six months answering congratulatory messages from German and Swedish admirers.

Louis Riel, 1844 to 1885, was leader of two rebellions against the Dominion Government in Canada. He and his followers wanted the west preserved as frontier country for the Indians and half-breeds. Riel himself was the son of a white man and a half-breed woman. In 1873 and again in 1874 he was elected to the House of Commons, and after his latter election he actually attempted to take his seat. He was expelled by the Commons, however. An earlier reward of $5,000 for his capture was still standing at the time. His second unsuccessful rebellion ended more disastrously. In 1885 his provisional rebel government collapsed and Riel was taken prisoner, convicted of treason, and hanged.

Dominoes And Interior Stars Will Open Cage Play-off This Evening

Tonight at the High School gym the Victoria Dominoes, British Columbia senior A men's basketball champions, will oppose the Trail-Rossland reps., senior B titleholders, in the first of the two-game total point challenge series for the right to represent this province in the Canadian play-downs. A preliminary game between Kingham-Gillespie and Island Tug Red Stacks will start at 8 o'clock. The second game of the challenge series will be played tomorrow evening on the same floor.

Included on the Trail-Rossland line-up are Jimmy Bardsley, Art Willoughby and Laurie Nicholson of last year's Varsity team. Other members are: J. P. Walmsley, R. D. Askey, J. Gidinski, M. Augevilli, L. Wilson, U. H. Miller, Carl Billie and B. Mirlo. The Dominoes will be at full strength although Ollie Goldsmith may not get into action owing to a twisted ankle suffered in a workout last week.

Fans are advised that entrance to the gym tonight will be made through the west door, owing to repairs to the grounds.

ENGLISH TEAM IS SELECTED

Strong Side Named to Meet Scotland in International Soccer April 4

London, March 30.—Selectors again dug deep into the Arsenal line-up for their English eleven to play Scotland in the final international soccer match of the season to be played at Wembley Stadium April 4. Scotland's team has not yet been picked.

E. J. Drake, starry Gunner forward, who was hurt in the Wales game February 5, is on the injured list and will be replaced by G. Camsell, Middlesbrough. Otherwise the team is unchanged.

Scotland and Wales are bracketed in number one position with three points while England and Ireland each have two.

SOCCER TROPHY DRAW RELEASED

Coach Hubert Cumberbirch of the Victoria High School has released the draw for this year's Colonist Cup soccer series. Victoria High School B team will meet the Esquimalt High School at Bullen Park tomorrow afternoon in the opening round. The A team of the Victoria High School will play the winners of this encounter. The final winners of these two games will play the victor of the Oak Bay High School-Mount View High School tilt.

The trophy play-off will be held at the Athletic Park. Victoria High School were victors last year with Oak Bay High School runners-up.

RANGERS IN SOCCER WIN

Defeat New Westminster Royals 1 to 0 in Final League Match

Vancouver, March 30.—Scotty McNair's Rangers scored a 1 to 0 surprise victory over New Westminster Royals in their last league tangle of the season and it was Graham White, making his debut with the Rangers, who fired the all-important goal.

The game, although of no material importance, will very probably prevent Rangers from winding up in the cellar and Royals are now assured of finishing in fourth place, out of the money.

The lone goal came thirty minutes after the interval and it was Gibson who paved the way. He battled with Anderson for possession on the goal line. The ball was thought to be out, but Gibson kept playing it and finally sent a perfect pass to White, who shot through a mass of players and caught Stronge unawares in the Royals' cage.

Esquimalt-City Win Cup Soccer

Defeat Victoria West and Saanich Thistles in Opening Matches of Province Cup Series; Victors Meet Next Saturday in Local Final

Saturday's local preliminary round in the Province Cup football series at the Athletic Park saw Esquimalt and the Victoria City elevens mark up victories. Playing in the first game of the doubleheader, the City blanked a short-handed Saanich Thistles team 3 to 0, and Esquimalt followed with a victory over Victoria West 4 to 1.

Esquimalt and the City will meet next Saturday at the park in the local final, the winner going into the competition proper with the mainland elevens.

Victoria City opened up their offensive play after five minutes had elapsed, but a fine hard shot sailed over the posts and George Payne's fine cross right in front of the goal went to waste. Up to the twenty-five-minute mark neither team made any dangerous plays.

At this time Jack Payne, after a stiff manoeuvring movement with the ball, shot one at Chalmers, Thistle's goalie, who successfully grabbed it, but slipped in his efforts and while on his stomach threw the leather out for a corner. Play switched to the other end of the field where netminder Rowe was called to clear Gent's attempt.

Again play reversed and for some time Victoria City kept the ball in their opponent's area. Chalmers saved one and Ronny Williams intercepted what looked like a sure set-up for G. Payne.

The first goal of the game came as the forty-minute mark was near. The City were awarded a free kick for hands by Gent and Pearce took the kick. He placed a beautiful kick near Jack Payne, who piled the ball into the net. The last part of this half saw the Thistles pressing, and Rowe was kept on his toes clearing several hard drives.

Coming in fast at the resumption of play, Saanich Thistles caused the City squad a little worry for ten minutes and kept the ball whistling around the goal mouth. Play shifted alternately during the next ensuing minutes, with the ball at one end of the field one minute and at the other end the next, but no markers were scored. A fine combination play between Peers and Cliff Robbins, that resulted in Peers shooting, was cleared by Chalmers.

CITY SCORE AGAIN

Victoria City's score went up to 2 to 0 as thirty minutes of the half passed, when Peers took Gibbons's cross and shot a grounder past Chalmers. City came down fast again at the kick-off and tried again for the net, but the shot was wide of its mark. About two minutes after the previous score Peers was again in the limelight when he made the opening for Jack Payne, who scored from close in.

Thistles came close to scoring during the final minutes of the game and on one occasion when Rowe had the ball they swarmed all over him, but a free kick was awarded the City.

ESQUIMALT WINS

Play opened with Esquimalt on the offensive for the first fifteen minutes of the game and then the Wests began to click on their forward combination and pressed the Dockers back to their own goal area on some fast rushes.

Wests had their first real break in the Esquimalt penalty area when Wilkinson missed a set-up by shooting high over the bar. After the first fifteen minutes the Wests, with the advantage of the sun and wind, forced matters but were unable to beat the Esquimalt defence. Wallace, Esquimalt, half fouled Morgan, Wests' forward, and Brown missed a fine chance to score for Wests from a scrimmage after the free shot.

Although their combination plays were clicking, Wests were loose on the shooting and Bell booted away over the bar after a fine cross by Morgan. Wests missed another chance when Brown took a pass from Watt, shot, and Wilkinson breasted from close range and De Costa cleared.

Esquimalt had the ball soon after but only for a few minutes and Worswick missed an open goal for the Dockers on a scrimmage in front of

MEAT MARKET WINS FIXTURE

Defeats Busy Bee Cafe 3 to 1 in Overtime Saanich Soccer League Match

The Victoria Meat Market soccer eleven was yesterday afternoon crowned second-half champions of the Saanich and District Football League, when they scored a 3 to 1 win over the Busy Bee Cafe squad at Hampton Road Park.

The teams ended the first ninety minutes of play, deadlocked 1 to 1. In the overtime the Butcher Boys pushed across two additional goals and held the cafemen to a no-score.

Victoria Meat Market will now meet Pitzer and Nex, first-half champions, for the Norman Whittaker Cup, next Sunday at Hampton Road Park. A large gathering of fans are expected for this event, which will no doubt feature close competition.

LITTLE WOLF BOUT WINNER

Takes Wrestling Match From Bob Kruse on Foul; Strelich Beats Davis

Awarded the third and deciding fall when Bob Kruse persisted in applying a strangle hold, Chief Little Wolf, massive Navajo Indian, won the main event of Saturday evening's wrestling card at the Tillicum gym, two falls to one. The show drew a large crowd.

Kruse turned in his best performance here in months and for six rounds gave Little Wolf a hard match. After three rounds of fast wrestling Kruse took the first fall in the fourth with a couple of healthy body slams. Little Wolf evened matters in the fifth when he made Kruse tap the mat after applying his famous Indian deathlock hold.

The sixth saw the bout come to a sudden finish. Kruse was warned for putting on the strangle, and when he kept on Referee Johnny Pears awarded the match to Little Wolf.

In the semi-windup Mike Strelich won on a foul from Nelson Davis. The latter won the first fall in the second round, using elbow butts and a body press. A series of flying tackles won Strelich the second fall in the third round. When Davis insisted on fouling in the fourth, Referee Pears awarded the bout to Strelich, much to the delight of the fans.

Province Girls Hoop Champions

Vancouver, March 30.—The Province intermediate girls' basketball quintette Saturday evening eked out a hard-fought 17 to 15 victory over the Vernon girls, Interior British Columbia finalists, to take the British Columbia girls' intermediate "A" basketball crown.

Province led by a lone point, 11 to 10, at the half.

The battle, a sudden-death final for the crown, was close all the way, with never more than two or three points separating the teams and with the lead changing hands all through the game.

FIVE ONTARIONS MAKE LONG TRIP

Five Ontario people who are making a six-month holiday trip along the Pacific Coast, arrived in Victoria yesterday and will leave for Vancouver Wednesday.

They are Mrs. M. M. Harrington of Chatham, Eli Huffman of Blenheim, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Piper and their son, Allan Piper, from Fort William. The party is staying at the Dominion Hotel.

They left Ontario in November and spent some time in southern California. They came to Victoria from Los Angeles by bus. They plan to stay in Vancouver for a month and to be back home by May 1.

Kimberley and Fort William Play Deciding Game Tonight

Western Canada Senior Hockey Championship Will Be Decided at Calgary

SECOND GAME IS COLORLESS TILT

Calgary, March 30.—Fort William Wanderers and Kimberley Dynamiters were all square today in their western Canada senior hockey final series. Wanderers defeated the British Columbia champions 4 to 2 here Saturday night in a dull game to pull up on even terms with Dynamiters who had won the first game game Thursday 6 to 5 in overtime.

Final encounter of the best-of-three series will be played in Calgary tonight. The winner will enter the Allan Cup finals.

Almost 5,000 fans packed Victoria arena to see Wanderers grab two goals in five minutes of the first period and then lay down a tightly packed defence that turned the game into a colorless affair. Some of the players indulged too much in petty, baiting tactics for Allan Cup hockey.

Ross Knowles, Wanderers' stocky defence star, got away to a bad start in the first period with three penalties but he settled down to play a great game. He tallied twice for Fort William, Ossie Hacquoil and Joe McArthur notching one each.

SMOTHER MACKIE

After the Manitoba-Thunder Bay champions had obtained two goals in the first frame, the encounter developed into a series of four and five-men Kimberley attacks with Wanderers shooting the puck the length of the ice or breaking away on occasional sorties toward the Dynamiters' net.

Fort William had a goal before the fans were settled. Hughie O'Leary raced down left wing but was detoured into the corner. He passed out to Knowles uncovered near the goal, and the defence ace batted the puck past Goalie King Campbell.

While Burnett, Kimberley defenceman, was in the penalty box four minutes later, Wanderers started a powerplay. Paul Kozak shot the puck at the net to relieve pressure but O'Leary caught the puck at the blue line and sent a pass ahead to Hacquoil, parked in front of the net. The tiny centre gave Campbell no chance.

Although Knowles took the three trips to the box in the remaining fifteen minutes and Kimberley launched five-man sorties, the British Columbia champions failed to score. Goalie Gordie Hacquoil handled only five shots during the session.

KIMBERLEY SCORES

Dynamiters pressed from the start of the second and there was a hectic scramble behind the Fort William blue line for two minutes before Mackie drilled a shot between several players and into the net. Wanderers regained the margin three minutes later. Joe McArthur rushed down the ice and passed to Knowles as he hit the defence. Knowles drove in and beat Campbell with a hard shot.

McArthur missed the goal while in alone on Campbell three minutes later but Murray Teeple got the puck in the corner and passed quickly to McArthur. The hefty centre had lots of time to pull the Kimberley netminder from the goal before lifting the puck into the net.

Burnett completed the scoring seven minutes later. After several minutes of passing near the Fort William goal, he got the puck thirty feet out. His low, hard shot fooled Hacquoil.

Dynamiter four and five-man attacks throughout the last period failed to break through the solid Fort William defence although play was behind the Wanderer blue line nearly the whole period. Fort William shot the puck the length of the ice repeatedly and then reorganized their defence.

Bobby Jones Shatters Augusta Course Record With 64; Nine Birdies

Augusta, Ga., March 30.—Using his famous putter "Calamity Jane" with a scoring touch such as he has rarely experienced, Bobby Jones cracked the Augusta national course record Saturday with a 64, eight under par.

Needing a birdie three on the last hole to better the mark which he shared with the club pro, Ed. Dudley, Jones fired a magnificent iron shot to the green, hole high and a yard from the cup, then sank the putt for his ninth birdie and a new practice record.

here Saturday, and officials admitted they faced a tough proposition in the next tilt slated for New York tomorrow. Leafs hoped to finish the round in two straight, but if a third game is necessary it will be played here Thursday.

CONACHER HURT

Big Charlie Conacher, spearhead of Leaf's drive, was nursing a badly bruised hand, and it was doubtful he would start tomorrow. Meanwhile in the New York camp, Coach Red Dutton had little hope his hip injury, which kept him out of Saturday's game, would mend sufficiently to allow him to take his defence post.

Buss Boll proved the hero of Leafs' victory, the former Regina Pats' star scoring two of the three goals. Harvey Jackson fired the winning goal to give 13,000-odd fans one of the season's biggest thrills.

SUMMARY

First period—No score. Penalties: Day, 2.

Second period—1, Americans, Wiseman, 31. Penalties: Murray.

Third period—2, Toronto, Boll (Clancy), 6.23; 3, Toronto, H. Jackson (Clancy), 6.56; 4, Toronto, Boll, 12.17. Penalties: Kelly, Anderson, Horner.

Reynoldstown Taking Jump

With the Wests' wingers crossing perfectly to centre, Esquimalt were kept right on their toes. Brown, Wests' left wing, came in fast and scored the first goal of the match and the only goal for his team with a low shot thirty-nine minutes after the beginning of play. Esquimalt perked up after this and Ed. De Costa charged Wests' goalie, Restal, havily after the latter had saved Barnswell's shot from the right wing angle. The first half ended with the Wests still pressing hard.

SECOND HALF

Jack Okell replaced Reside at left back for Wests as the second half opened. Esquimalt attacked as play resumed, but no score was made till twelve minutes after the second period had begun. Scotty Stewart shot a nice pass to McBay, who used his head accurately for Esquimalt's first goal, directed to the right-hand corner of the net. McBay again made good, on Stewart's rebound, after twenty-two minutes to break the tie.

Goalie De Costa, for Esquimalt, cleared Morgan's shot and then Ed. De costa came back for the Dockers with a hard sizzler from close range, crossing the goalmouth to the far corner of the net, beating Restal to the play. Ten minutes from the end of the game Stewart twisted a slow one past Restal for Esquimalt's fourth goal and the Esquimalt forwards, each seeking to score individually, rained a barrage of shots at the West goal as the game ended.

Al. McKinnon refereed.

Esquimalt—L. De Costa, Marsh, Cook, Edwards, Wallace, Boyd, Barnswell, Stewart, E. De Costa, Worswick and McBay.

Drop Second Game of Ontario Men's Basketball Final to Toronto Y

Two Saskatchewan and one Manitoba team were wearing newly-earned provincial basketball crowns today, but it was doubtful if any of them would seek further laurels.

In week-end duelling, Regina Ritz Ramblers and Saskatoon Grads emerged champions in men's and women's divisions respectively in Saskatchewan. Winnipeg Olympias became Manitoba women's titlists.

The situation was much different in Ontario. Anxious to advance in the Dominion men's playdowns, Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. and Windsor Fords were tied with one victory each in their best-of-three playoffs for the provincial crown.

The Toronto squad, last year's intermediate champions, forced a third game when they defeated Fords 40 to 33 in Toronto Saturday. The border club won the first game handily 58 to 39.

McGill University were strong favorites to advance in championship play following their 27 to 19 victory over Ottawa Rangers in Montreal. Total points count on the two-game round with the second game slated for Ottawa next Saturday.

The Ramblers of Regina edged out University of Saskatchewan Huskies, 48 to 47 in Saskatoon. They captured the two-game round 101 to 82. Grads retained their title although losing to Regina Dodgers 37 to 30. A fifteen-point lead from the first game was enough to carry Grads to victory on the round.

Rowing Club Squad Wins Over Stanford

Vancouver Fifteen Defeats Touring California English Ruggers 9 to 6 in Fighting Match; Stanford Will Play in Victoria on Wednesday

Vancouver, March 30. — Vancouver Rowing Club's fast-stepping English rugby squad Saturday defeated a fighting fifteen from Stanford University nine to six before a small crowd of spectators at Brockton Point Oval. Stanford will play the final game of their tour at Victoria, Wednesday.

Stanford's forward line proved far superior when they took the long runs or in the loose, but were completely outmanoeuvred in tight scrimmages. The Rowing Club squad were too smart for the Americans in the scrum, and were able to heel the ball out consistently to take possession of the leather.

Joe Vigna's absence in the back division weakened the visitors three-quarter line, and many times they failed to click together when passing the ball along the line.

OPENING TRIES

Russ Kinninmont and Joe Ross of the Rowers featured in first two tries. Kinninmont accepted a pass from Ross to go over in the corner for the first touch. On the second he intercepted in midfield and ran fifty yards before being pulled down from behind by Robin Lindsay, Stanford fullback, three yards from the line. Ross intercoded in the scramble that followed, and went over with the ball. Both attempted conversions were yards wide.

Stanford scored their first try on a dribbling play by their forwards. Zamlock was credited with the try. Shortly afterwards Tommy Roxburgh booted a penalty goal for the oarsmen from twenty-five yards out to give them a six-point margin.

Roxburgh turned in a fine display for the Rowing Club, as did Kinninmont in assisting in the scoring of the first points of the game. Robertson, Lungley, Bain and Mitchell were the pick of the forwards.

Robin Lindsay, versatile Stanford athlete, playing his first game at fullback, played a great game, relieving pressure time and again. Archie Zamlock was outstanding on the three-quarter line, while George Dita, A. Scmmelroth and J. Partridge led the forwards.

"Can't Wear 'em Out"

That's what people who've worn Blackthorn Twists often say of them. Exaggeration, of course . . . since even sea-going canvas will wear out in time! But these Irish-loomed cloths wear so very long . . . and hold their shape so very long the proud owner might very well be tempted to over-statement. Come in and see for yourself how very attractive the new patterns are.

CRIME CLAUSE IS ALTERED

Man Who Has Expiated Offence May Run For Office in Vancouver

Persons who have committed indictable offences and been convicted will not be barred from seeking municipal office in Vancouver as the result of a change in the city's charter ratified by the British Columbia Legislature this morning.

The amendment specifies that where a person has been pardoned or has been out of jail five years he will be eligible to run for office.

Jack Price, C.C.F., Vancouver East, pointed out that Vancouver was one of the few places where a man, after expiating his crime and paying his debt to society, could not seek public office.

BILL ALLOWED TO GO AHEAD

Government Consents to Discussion of Drugless Healers' Measure

A bill giving legal status to naturopathic physicians, or drugless healers, was allowed to proceed in the B.C. Legislature today.

Mr. Speaker Perry ruled on a point of order raised by Dr. J. J. Gillis, Liberal, Yale, that the measure, through its penalties, affected crown revenues and could not proceed without government consent.

Premier Pattullo declared he was himself opposed to the bill but as the sponsors of it had gone to some trouble had no objections to it being put before the House for an open vote. Personally he would oppose it as not in the public interest, but as many other groups had received similar status on different occasions, he would allow a "free-for-all" expression of opinion on it.

The bill will come up later for debate.

NO INCREASE IN RUBELLA

A decline in reports on rubella cases during the last few days of last week and today indicated a partial abatement in the spread of the disease, Dr. Richard Felton, city medical health officer, said today.

He was not prepared to state the disease had definitely run its course here owing to the fact that its high communicability might give rise to another outbreak.

Last week eighty-four cases were reported, the majority being registered early in the week. Today four were recorded and three suspects were to be visited this afternoon.

"Present indications are that rubella is not increasing and there have been far fewer cases reported in the last few days. In the majority of cases those affected have been in their later teens and adults," the doctor said.

Workmen busy on the Oaklands auditorium construction were forced to cancel roof work today owing to ice on the covering, Alderman Walter Luney reported. Mortar and buckets of water were also frozen when the laborers started, he said.

Notify Cowmen To Quit City

Notices Distributed to Inform Dairymen of By-law Enforcement

Cow owners affected by the city's by-law, which prohibits the housing of more than two animals in one barn in the city limits, have received notice from the city to move, Alderman J. D. Hunter, chairman of the health committee, stated today.

The by-law, in force for some time, will be strictly enforced, Alderman Hunter stated.

"There is a by-law on the books and there are two courses only to follow," the alderman remarked. "Either the by-law must be enforced or else rescinded. In view of the fact several dairymen have moved out of the city owing to the by-law it would be manifestly unfair to rescind it now."

Several dairymen are willing to go and are just waiting to be told to leave, Alderman Hunter said. They would be required to quit the city as soon as possible or cut their herds to two cows, he added.

PUBLICITY LAW IS EXPLAINED

No Interference With Promotions Planned, But Can Check on Statements

The purpose of the change in the mineral survey law requiring brokers and salesmen as well as companies to file publicity material on mines with the department is simply to make these persons responsible for the statements they make in endeavoring to persuade people to invest money in mines.

There is no intention of making government approval necessary before material is issued nor of censoring anything that goes out. But, where false information is given out and those responsible fail to correct it, the government will then publish its own facts about a property.

This, in brief, was the explanation given in the B.C. Legislature this morning by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines, of the amendment which has raised much interest in mining and speculative circles. Decision on the clause was held over.

Mr. Pearson pointed out that corporations were already required to file the desired information, but the change brought brokers and salesmen in as well. It was simply extending a principle already in the law.

NO INTERFERENCES

"We do not make any attempt to say a company cannot sell the stock, nor will we interfere with any promotion," he said.

Mr. Pearson cited a case about one mine where a sketch was circulated privately and thousands of dollars invested and lost on the basis of it.

Rolf Bruhn, Independent, Salmon Arm, declared the law would place a hardship on many properties which were only visited once a year by a government engineer. He argued that many of the best mines had originally been turned down by engineers. The wildcats had turned out the best.

Mr. Pearson said people opposing the clause desired to have a wide open market and did not want to mine the mines, but to mine the public." He stressed that departmental approval of the literature was not required, but that where it was found to be false the government would publish its own information.

CHANCE TO SUBSTANTIATE

"If we think false information is given out we are going to tell the public so—but we will give the companies or salesman a chance to substantiate what they say first," he declared.

Mr. Bruhn said the trouble with all that type of legislation was it lulled the public into a false sense of security. Mining would always be a gamble.

G. M. Murray, Liberal, Lillooet, told a story about "Big Bill" Davidson, who worked away at the Minto property in face of the advice of mining engineers. The result was the development of a good mine.

"Well, this would not have made any difference to him. As long as no misstatements were made about the showings on the property nothing would have been done. We do not pass on the future of the mine, but simply state facts as to what exists. No reasonable effort to see that true facts are put before the public will hinder development," said Mr. Pearson.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "one of the things that has kept capital out of mines is that some properties have been floated on false statements, thus scaring capital away."

Mr. Pearson this morning introduced an amendment to the bill which will eliminate the need for documents on mines being filed with the department more than once. That is, if a mine company has submitted its literature, a broker or salesmen will not have to again submit it when he uses the material. This was stood over with the rest of the section.

Fire Partially Destroys Hall

Fire which originated from burning rubbish at the rear of the building partially destroyed the old Kingston Street Fire Hall shortly after noon today. Sparks from the rubbish fire reached additional rubbish piled in the interior of the building and in a few minutes flames were shooting high and across the street.

Firemen saved the building before any of the walls collapsed.

This building was the scene of a fire some months ago when a quantity of wastepaper and other rubbish was stored there. It was the remainder of the rubbish which took fire today.

URGES PORTABLE MILLS FOR B.C.

W. J. Asselstine, Liberal, Atlin, in the mining committee of the Legislature today urged that portable mills be provided by the Department of Mines for use in various parts of the province. Mr. Asselstine said he had examined portable mills in operation in California and they were a success.

A. Lubett, representing European smelting interests, addressed the committee regarding operations of his clients in base metal ores, both in raw and concentrated form.

Financial assistance had been given by his clients to several properties now producing in various parts of the province, Mr. Lubett said.

Crashed Parked Car Four Times

Chinese Driver Fined For Smashing Into Machine in City

Chan Long, Chinese, was fined a total of $35, and had his driver's licence suspended when he was convicted in the City Police Court this morning on charges of driving to the common danger and failing to produce a driver's licence.

The charge arose from an accident on March 25, at the corner of Herald and Douglas Streets, where the accused drove his truck four times into a parked car on Herald Street, owned by Mrs. Marguerite Wilkinson of Langford.

According to Tom L. Sargeant, an eyewitness, the accused first drove his truck into the car as he was turning the corner. He backed up and then started forward again, and once again struck the parked machine. He repeated this twice more before Mr. Sargeant jumped on the running board and assisted him in steering the truck to the middle of the road.

Mr. Sargeant then instructed him to pull into the roadside, but before the truck stopped it had nearly reached Government Street. "He gave me a wild ride down Herald Street, and I was never so scared in my life," said Mr. Sargeant.

The driver's licence, which the accused possessed was a learner's permit under which he was required to have accompanying him an adult who possessed a driver's licence. Witnesses said he was alone at the time of the accident.

Questioned by the court witness said he had not had terms of the licence interpreted to him at the time of issuance by the provincial police.

At the suggestion of C. L. Harrison, prosecutor, the court recommended suspension of the licence. Mr. Harrison described the accused as a menace to public safety, driving under the conditions which he was doing.

On the common danger charge of a fine of $25 and $2.50 costs was imposed, and on the licence charge the penalty was $5 fine and $2.50 costs. An aggregate option of fifteen days' imprisonment was given.

Position Of Nurses Studied

Winch Claims There Should Be One to Every Five Beds

The nurses' profession and the Canadian Hospitals' Association are making a study of the proper size of nursing staffs in hospitals, Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, declared in the Legislature this morning, in rejecting a motion of E. E. Winch, C.C.F., Burnaby, to provide in the Hospitals Act that the ratio should not be less than one graduate nurse to five beds.

Mr. Winch said in the Jubilee Hospital at Victoria there was only one graduate nurse for thirteen beds. In some parts of the province it ran up to one to thirty-six beds. Much of this was due to the large number in training, which cut down the ratio of graduates.

Dr. Weir admitted there were many variations, but said it would be unfair to lay down a hard and fast rule.

Dr. W. H. Sutherland, Liberal, Revelstoke, declared it was time to stop meddling in other people's affairs. The hospitals could run their own business better than the Legislature.

The hospitals' bill, which gives the government under powers of investigation into hospital methods, was given third reading.

A bill empowering the government to establish tuberculosis control centres was completed and given third reading.

To Study Hospital Working Conditions

The Board of Industrial Relations will investigate allegations that hospital employees in the province are working excessive hours at low rates of pay.

The charges were made in the Legislature by Harold Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East, who moved to bring hospital staffs within the scope of minimum wage and hours of work laws.

On an explanation by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, the House accepted his amendment to have the industrial relations board look into the matter.

Vancouver Baby Bonds Validated

A bill validating the sale of baby bonds by Vancouver to finance the new city hall and other public works undertakings was passed by the Legislature this morning.

A last-minute change in the measure will insure costs being paid Lou Smith, a Vancouver ratepayer, who attacked the baby bond issue and secured a decision which resulted in the need for the issue being validated.

The monthly meeting held on Saturday evening by the Victoria Society of Magicians, at the home of J. Little, 3004 S Street, was well attended. Jack Trace, one of Victoria's well-known entertainers, was welcomed into the society. After a business session and some exchanges on magic, supper was served. The meeting heartily thanked their host and hostess for the pleasant evening.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE—Edward Gurnee Hewitt. Sacred to the memory of a dear husband and loving father, who passed into eternal sleep this anniversary in 1932.
Sleep on, sweet dead, you have for ever left
This world and all its weight of misery and pain,
You will no longer be by poverty pressed down,
Sleep on, sweet dead, yours is a better fate
Than ours who live in this dread prison house of tears.
Where all around us is a maze of woe,
And poverty increases with the years.
Sleep on, sweet dead, you can no longer see
The world preparing for a storm of war,
Your eyes are closed for ever to such ugliness
Sleep on, dear dead, and rest for evermore.

"TRAVIATA" AT ROYAL TODAY

San Carlo Opera Company Will Have Victoria Premiere This Evening

Tonight's opera by the San Carlo Opera Company will be "La Traviata," Verdi's melodious work, the story of which was taken from Dumas's "Camille." In the opera, as in the play, one comprehends the injunction, "Let he who is not guilty throw the first stone." For Verdi clothes Violetta in music that brings out the character so vividly and beautifully that to see and hear "Traviata" is remindful of Dumas's play by Bernhardt, and the appearance in it of Duse, with her exquisite intonation and restraint of gesture.

Lionel Barrymore Will Appear Here

Lionel Barrymore brings to the screen another of the amazing character performances that made him famous in "A Free Soul" and "The Copperhead," in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's transcription of MacKinlay Kantor's famous novel, greatest tribute to the dog as a friend of man since Senator Vest's eulogy. The picture is showing at the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

Thrills of actual fox-hunting scenes in a penitentiary, glimpses of feuds in the hill lands, and love romance between Eric Linden and Maureen O'Sullivan are other ingredients in this gripping entertainment.

Three of the players who were with Barrymore in "Ah Wilderness!" are with him again, Linden as the son, Spring Byington as the wife and mother, and Charley Grapewin as the faithful friend. Henry Wadsworth, Dudley Digges, James Macklin, Jonathan Hale, and Billy Newell are others among the players.

Russ Columbo At Columbia

A constantly changing scene forms the background for "Wake Up and Dream," the Universal comedy with music which comes to the Columbia Theatre today with Russ Columbo, Roger Pryor, June Knight, Catharine Doucet and Henry Armetta in featured roles.

The story opens in a theatre in Atlantic City, switches to another theatre where a musical comedy is in rehearsal, and soon afterward is transferred to New York, whither Colombo, Pryor and June Knight, members of a small-time vaudeville "act," flee when one of their number becomes involved with the police.

"Wake Up and Dream" was directed by Kurt Neumann and the hilarious story was written by John Meehan Jr.

Shown as a second feature is "Silk Hat Kid," starring Mae Clarke and Lew Ayres.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Starring Joan Crawford and directed by W. S. Van Dyke—this combination is enough to make any picture a success. In the case of "I Live My Life," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production at the Playhouse Theatre, the combination coupled with a powerful story, is made an outstanding production.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Of the many people who come in daily contact with the Dionne Quintuplets, Mrs. Dionne is the only one who can unerringly name each of her little girls as they appear in photographs.

Neither Fred Davis, official photographer for the "quints," or Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, can equal her feat. During the viewing of the rushes on "The Country Doctor," which stars the tiny Dionnes and is now at the Capitol Theatre, Mrs. Dionne named the babies as they appeared on the screen.

Specialties Prop Wall Street List In Quiet Session

Associated Press

New York, March 30.—Demand for a few specialties, some of which managed to hold gains of one to around two points, today kept the stock market on a fairly even keel.

While the close was steady, it was the dullest full session in six months. Transfers approximated only 900,000 shares.

Brokers said, although domestic news was generally interpreted as constructive, and the foreign situation appeared to be much less threatening, many traders felt their seats on the sidelines were sufficiently comfortable for the time being.

On the optimistic side was the estimate of the American Iron and Steel Institute that current steel mill operations were at 62 per cent of capacity, compared with 53.7 in the preceding week.

The French franc rallied moderately in terms of the dollar, although it was still under the theoretical gold shipping point. Commodities and bonds were somewhat mixed.

MINES HOLD FAIR GAINS

Canadian Press

Toronto, March 30.—Early strength wilted in late trading on the mining board of the Toronto stock exchange today. Fair-sized gains were held at the close, however.

Noranda, base metals, pace-setters, sold up a point to 51¼. Hudson Bay, Sudbury Basin, Ventures and Waite Amulet added narrow gains.

Silvers moved lightly, Eldorado and White Eagle improved. Changes in big golds, however, were small. Wright-Hargreaves eased, while Pioneer and Dome gained fractions.

Penny issues developed softness. Minto, Red Lake and Greene were off. Oils steadied.

Wheat Futures Up Fractions Today In Winnipeg Pit

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, March 30.—Wheat prices were firm on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today and at the close of a dull session were ¼ to ½ cent higher, May at 82⅝, July 83⅛ and October 84⅛ cents.

Selling was light, and it took but little buying to hold values steady. Week-end export sales of Canadian wheat totaled 400,000 bushels, including a cargo of No. 5 wheat to China.

Chicago was fractionally higher most of the day, while Liverpool closed ⅛d advanced to unchanged. Buenos Aires was unchanged.

PLAN GERMANY JOIN TALKS

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 30.—Germany may be invited to join in staff talks with the other Locarno signatories. But it will not be until she has agreed to the mutual assistance pacts which are to replace the Locarno treaty which Germany violated a fortnight ago.

Staff talks between British, French and Belgian military experts, it is intimated by British authorities, will begin shortly irrespective of Germany's reply to the plan for European security proposed by the Locarno powers.

But if Germany's reply is favorable, the way is open to wider conversations, leading to the conclusion of a new Locarno. This, if Germany participates, would, like the old Locarno, guarantee both sides of the Franco-German and Belgo-German frontiers against unprovoked aggression.

GUARANTEE FOR BRITAIN

But in one sense it would go farther. In the old Locarno Britain was a guarantor, but received no corresponding guarantee. Under the new Locarno, Britain also will get a guarantee against unprovoked aggression. This was the principle of the proposed western air pact.

Summed up, the position is that staff talks between the British, the French and the Belgians will open irrespective of the German reply. If Germany accepts, then she will participate in the negotiations for new mutual assistance pacts, joining in the staff talks later. If she refuses the staff talks will continue without her.

DISCUSSIONS SOON

On the trial of Germany's 99 per cent "ja" for Chancellor Hitler, the British cabinet is considering when the general staff talks are to begin.

It is expected they will open shortly, whether Chancellor Hitler makes constructive proposals for a new European security system or not. The plan of the Locarno powers, which received British cabinet approval, is definite that they are to begin "forthwith," although limited to "arranging the technical conditions under which the obligations which are binding upon them should be carried out in case of unprovoked aggression."

Recent Leaders At Vancouver Eclipsed In Morning Session

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 30.—Recent leaders fell back into second place during the morning session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

Hedley Amalgamated proved most active on the board, coming out for a sales volume of better than 59,000 shares to close the early period up three cents at 30½.

The list as a whole was generally quieter in comparison to recent sessions, but managed to work up to a total volume of 442,000 shares.

Minto closed lower after turning over more than 46,000 shares, the stock opened up at 81 and advanced to 82 in later trading. It touched a low point of 76, then recovered at the close to stand at 80—a loss of 5½ cents.

Oils were lead by heavy trading in C. and E. Over 51,000 shares of this stock were traded, price holding unchanged to end at $1.26.

Tarzan And the Fire Gods

Evil frowns spread over the brutal faces of the four Baalite elders as they clutched Lady Beth and led her into the temple. Down the dim stairs they conducted her, past the eerie, flickering lights that illumined the images of many gods, and into the Court of the Pillar.

Before her lay the avenue to the Fiery Column of Death, from which she had saved the child. Now she must tread that same fatal path! The elders began to gesture commandingly toward the glowing pillar. "Walk! Walk!" they cried. In a hypnotic daze she stepped forward.

Suddenly she stopped. What foolish thing was she doing—walking tranquilly toward death—doing the bidding of these dreadful people without a struggle? No! She would not! She turned upon the elders. Her defiance was plain; but they gave no evidence of surprise.

Instead, one of them picked up a rope that trailed off into the distance. Before she realized what was happening, they had looped it around her. One of them cried a command. The rope drew taut, and Lady Beth felt herself pulled relentlessly toward the deadly Pillar!

How to Please Your Wife?

Dorothy Dix

Husband Asks For Advice

AN EXASPERATED married man writes me as follows: "You are always writing to women about how to please their husbands. Why don't you give us poor husbands a few tips about how to please our wives and keep their fur rubbed the right way? We need such advice far more than the women do because men are simple creatures and easily pleased, whereas how to please a wife is a problem to which no husband knows the answer.

"Speaking from observation and from experience, I find that every wife expects her husband to be a money-maker in order that she may have a nice house, a good car, servants, Paris frocks and hats, and all the other luxuries the feminine heart craves. Being anxious to make a hit with Friend Wife, husband rolls up his sleeves and goes to work. He toils early and late, and brings home the bacon and expects wife to pat him on the back and tell him what a fine provider he is, and how happy she is because she has got such a good meal ticket.

"But does that happen? Take another guess at it. Wife bemoans herself because she is married to a sordid creature who thinks of nothing but business, who neglects her for the store or the office or job. She complains that when he comes home at night he is too tired to go out to places of amusement, and because he is more interested in the stock market than he is in the latest trend in Nordic literature.

"But if she marries a playboy, who can dance like a gigolo and who knows all the headwaiters by their first names but doesn't know how to make money, is she any better satisfied? Not a bit. She begins to get mighty tired of him and wishes that she had a reliable old bill-payer when the first of the month rolls around and the collectors begin hammering on the door. Nor does the perfect lover qualify as the perfect husband when she begins to get hungry and yearns to be fed on beefsteaks instead of soft talk.

So there we poor husbands are, between the devil and the deep blue sea. We don't know whether to spend our time working for our wives to keep them soft and easy, or whether we had better put it in holding their hands and telling them how beautiful and wonderful they are. We don't even know whether or not to go domestic after we are married.

"Goodness knows, the husband who puts on his hat after dinner and goes down to his club, or for a session at poker with his old cronies, never hears the last of it, and his wife bedews him with her tears as she reproaches him for neglecting her, and tells him that she never left her happy home and gave up all the good chances she could have married to be treated like this.

"But, on the other hand, neither does he ever hear the last of it if he sticks as close to the fireside as the house cat of an evening and refuses to pull off his slippers and smoking jacket and get into his evening clothes and step out with his wife to dull dinners and stupid night clubs.

"Every man in the world would like to be the head of his own house, and every bridegroom starts out with the firm conviction that he is going to be IT. But by the time the honeymoon is set he is wiping his feet on the doormat, just as his father and his grandfather have done. How it happens, no man knows. It is just one of those things.

"Maybe it is because he is too tired when he comes home at night to fight for his rights; maybe it is for peace and to save nagging; maybe it is because he is scared of the little two bits worth of humanity to whom he is married that makes a man give in and let the wife monopolize the home, manage the children, eat what she likes and live where she prefers. But he just does it, while wife complains that he has no interest in his home and puts all the burden of rearing the children on her shoulders.

"Every husband would like to retain his wife's affection, and be a little tin god to her, but he doesn't know how to treat her in order to get the results. If he doesn't curb her extravagance, she ruins him. If he does, she is likely to call him a tightwad.

If he lets her henpeck him, she despises him. If he talks back to her, she accuses him of mental cruelty and drags him to the divorce court. If he is meek, she walks all over him. And if he stands up for his rights, she fights him. Yet she is just as likely to adore the brute who beats her and kiss the hand of the man who makes her support herself.

It is because women want such contradictory qualities in husbands that keeps us husbands wondering, and any one who can tell us how to please 'em will confer a blessing on a long-suffering and oppressed class."

Uncle Wiggily and the Hungry Birds

By HOWARD R. GARIS

All through the winter, Uncle Wiggily had fed the cold and hungry bids that flocked around his Hollow Stump Bungalow. He would get crumbs from Nurse Jane and scatter them on the ground. If the ground was covered with snow, so the crumbs might sink down where the birds couldn't get them the bunny gentleman would scrape the snow away or put the crumbs on board.

"Well, the birds go to a lot of trouble for us," said Uncle Wiggily. "They eat many bad bugs and worms that might spoil my garden which I am soon going to plant. And the birds sing to us."

"Oh, I love birds," said Mrs. Longears, "only I never saw anyone go to as much trouble to feed them as you do."

"It isn't much trouble," said Mr. Longears. "It's the least I can do. Birds that don't fly south in winter have a hard time of it. They can manage to keep warm for they have warm suits of feathers. But when there are no bugs and worms for them to eat and no berries or seeds on the bushes and weeds they get very hungry.

NURSE JANE SAVED CRUMBS

So each time Nurse Jane scraped the table plates after meals, she put the crumbs in a paper bag and Uncle Wiggily took them out to scatter for the hungry birds. He scattered the crumbs in three places for this season. There were three sorts of birds that came for crumbs at the bunny's bungalow.

There were starlings and blue jays and sparrows.

"For some reason which I don't know" said Uncle Wiggily, "the starlings don't like the blue jays and the blue jays don't like the sparrow and the sparrows don't like the starlings. They can't seem to eat together in peace and quiet. Well, that's their affair, not mine. My job is to feed the hungry birds.

"That's for the sparrows," he said. "They are the smallest but they are the most friendly. They never seem afraid of me."

"That is for the starlings," said Uncle Wiggily. "Though they are larger birds than the sparrows they seem more timid. So I won't ask them to come too near my bungalow to eat."

BLUE JAYS MAKE A FUSS

"That is for the blue jays," he said. "Not that the jays are timid birds, far from it. They are very bold and saucy and noisy and they make a great racket around the house. My wife doesn't like their fuss. So I'll feed the blue jays far away."

The birds didn't mind how far from or near to the bungalow they were fed so long as they had something to eat. Each day they picked up the crumbs the bunny gentleman sprinkled for them and each kind of bird in its own way sang thanks to Uncle Wiggily. The sparrows cheeped, the starlings cackled and the jays yelled "Hay!" But it all meant the same thing.

One day the three Bad Chaps saw Uncle Wiggily feeding the hungry birds and at once they thought of something. I'll tell you about it in the next story, which will be about Uncle Wiggily's cat bird. But please don't let the coal bin hide the snow shovel until the weather gets a little warmer, will you?

HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, MARCH 31, 1936

As the month ends, adverse aspects are active, according to astrology. Severe storms, obstacles in carrying plans to completion and many setbacks may be on the calendar.

Although the present may be unsatisfactory in many ways there is promise of plenty of successful activity for many persons next month when unusual conditions will accelerate manufacturing.

This is a fortunate date for entering into contracts that will concern building or transportation. Shipping will take on new significance as the spring advances.

Japan may suffer from some disaster that tests the empire's resources of recovery, but does not prevent the carrying on of ambitious plans for territorial expansion.

Women may encounter difficulties in obtaining business positions. Competition will compel many readjustments so that men may find work and may regain economic independence.

Astrologers remind the public that there is a prophecy that war will demand trained men for many jobs that cannot be performed by women, so discrimination against women in business may be of brief duration.

Strange correspondence and similarity will mark conditions here and in Central Europe. On both sides of the Atlantic assassinations have been prophesied that will have far-reaching results.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of perplexities due to necessary changes. It is wise to be extremely watchful regarding details in business.

Children born on this day may be high-spirited and temperamental. Subjects of this sign usually are extremely modest and yet forceful.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Rene Descartes, philosopher, 1596, and Franz Joseph Haydn, composer, 1732.

SOVIET AIRMEN HOP FOR POLE

Moscow, March 30.—Two Soviet airplanes hopped off yesterday on an attempt to make the first flight from the Russian mainland to Franz Joseph Land.

The pilots, whose planes are specially equipped for Arctic flights, will study weather conditions along the route to the Pole. Soviets hope some day to fly to North America over this route.

Nikhali Vodopyanoff, Soviet air "hero," and O. Makhotkin were at the controls of the planes. Franz Joseph Land is some 2,200 miles away.

They landed yesterday evening at Archangel, their first scheduled stopping place, where the planes will be equipped with skis. They will continue, if weather permits, to Vaygach Island, at the entrance to the Kara Sea. Then they will hop to Novaya Zemlya, from where they plan to span the 400 miles of Arctic seas to Tikhaya Bay, in the middle of the Franz Joseph group.

The explorers plan flights from that point as far as eighty-five degrees latitude, studying weather and ice conditions.

Atlantic Travel Will Be Heavy This Season

Steamship Lines Optimistic Regarding Summer Business; Business Much Better Than Last Year

Associated Press

New York March 30.—Reservations already made and a flood of requests for accommodations disclosed today the 1936 North Atlantic travel business has reached boom proportions.

"For the first time in several years our booking clerks are working nights to catch up with the demand for accommodations," the Cunard-White Star Line reported. "We may have to extend the season beyond the late July closing.

And every other line was optimistic over the increase in passenger traffic. Italian Line officials were especially jubilant. A cruise to the Mediterranean last week booked solid with 1,000 passengers, the most that have undertaken this trip since the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The Swedish-American line is so filled it has stopped taking applications for a cruise to the North Capes and Russia, leaving June 30.

Officials of the United States Lines reported business 36 to 65 per cent better than any year since the depression.

WANT FULL PAY BACK

London, March 30.—An amicable settlement is anticipated in the claim of the United Kingdom's rail workers for restoration of the remaining portion of the wage cut instituted during the financial crisis preceding the creation of the National Government in 1931.

A partial restoration in 1934 left 2½ per cent of the original cut still standing. The railway companies now propose to restore half of it, or 1¼ per cent, which involves an addition of £1,000,000 to the present wage bill.

The companies maintain that although traffic has improved the betterment fails to justify at present a full restoration of the cut. Union leaders are expected to advise acceptance by the men of the proferred compromise.

TWO VESSELS LOAD LUMBER

King Edgar Going to Australia and Quarrington Court to British Isles

Two ships in for lumber kept the Ogden Point piers busy today. They were the King Edgar, Capt. A. W. Wheeler and the Quarrington Court, Capt. Charles Hurst.

The King Edgar arrived yesterday and is loading 425,000 feet of Vancouver Island lumber for Australia. King Brothers expect to get her away this evening to New Westminster to complete.

The Quarrington Court came in from Vancouver and is loading 825,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom. She will return to Vancouver tomorrow evening to take on further cargo before putting to sea. The Quarrington was last here in November and since then has made a round trip to the British Isles.

The Anglo-Peruvian cleared over the week-end for Chemainus after taking 375,000 feet of lumber at Ogden Point for China ports.

Capt. George E. Cates First Came to British Columbia From New York in 1894

Canadian Press

Vancouver, March 30.—Funeral services will be held early next week for the late Captain George E. Cates, the seventy-four-year-old citizen, one of British Columbia's first ship builders and member of a prominent Vancouver seafaring family, died here Friday evening following a lengthy illness.

Captain Cates came to Vancouver from New York in 1894 and established a shipyard here which was soon well known along the Pacific Coast.

The Britannia, at one time the largest ship built in Vancouver, was constructed by Captain Cates. Other well-known boats which he built were the Coutlí and the Kildonan.

Besides his widow he is survived by a son, Adrian in Bremerton, Washington; four brothers, all sea captains, and a sister.

New Manager of Calgary's Palliser Hotel Was at Empress Hotel in 1920

Vancouver, March 30.—As well known in steamship circles as he is in the hotel business throughout Canada, William J. Mylett, chief inspector of Canadian Pacific Hotels, who, while making his home in Vancouver, has been traveling during the past five years on regular visits to his company's fourteen hotels, has been appointed manager of the Palliser Hotel in Calgary.

W. J. MYLETT

Mr. Mylett succeeds Colin P. Pratt, who has come to Hotel Vancouver in succession to Thomas E. Chester, whose appointment as assistant general manager, in charge of western hotels, was announced recently by H. F. Mathews, general manager of Canadian Pacific hotels. The changes are effective April 1.

Mr. Mylett is no stranger to Vancouver and the Pacific Coast, where he has made his home since 1921. Joining the C.P.R. at its Chateau Frontenac, in Quebec, in 1908, he came to Winnipeg in 1913 as chief steward of the Royal Alexandra Hotel, afterwards becoming its assistant manager.

He went to the Empress Hotel, Victoria, in 1920 as assistant manager, and in 1921 became catering superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Steamships at Vancouver, and rendered valuable service to the white Empress fleet until 1931, when he returned to the hotel department. In the past five years Mr. Mylett has been making regular trips to the fourteen hotels of his company's system, and in all other respects is an experienced and highly popular hotel executive.

C.N. Steamships Made Profit In Last Year

Eleven Vessels Operated By Canadian Government Made More Money and Carried Bigger Cargoes, House at Ottawa Hears

Ottawa, March 30.—For the first time since the formation of the company operating results of the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, show a surplus available for interest requirements, according to the report for 1935, tabled in the House of Commons, last week, by Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Railways and Canals. Gross revenues for the year amounted to $3,816,245, an increase of $306,507 over the revenues for 1934. Operating expenses for the year were $3,616,214, as against $3,606,416 for 1934. There was an operating profit for the year of $200,030, as against an operating deficit in 1934 of $96,678, a betterment of $296,708. After payment of bond interest the income deficit was $269,969, as compared with $666,678 in 1934.

"Operating expenses increased only $9,798," the report states, "which in view of the additional business is evidence that a policy of strict economy and careful administration was pursued." The increased business amounted to 8.73 per cent, and was taken care of by an increase in operating costs of only approximately ¼ of 1 per cent.

BIGGER CARGOES

The number of voyages was 130, one more than in 1934, the report states. Tonnage carried exceeded that of the previous year by 6 per cent. This was principally in import cargoes. The number of passengers carried increased for 26,305 to 27,893, and an increasing number took the longer passage to Jamaica and other islands in the British West Indies.

The directors, Hon. C. P. Fullerton, chairman, and F. K. Morrow and J. Edouard Labelle, K.C., in the report of the 1935 operations of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Limited, say, "After an unbroken sequence of operating deficits running back to 1921, it is a pleasure to be able to report that the services were operated in 1935 at a profit of $311,822, an improvement of $439,088 over the previous year." Gross revenues for the previous year, Operating expenses were $2,452,726, an increase of $22,901, as compared with 1934. In addition to the payment to the government of the profits for the year of $311,822, the report states that the amount of working capital required in the business was reduced by $250,000, and that amount was refunded to the government.

Services were operated to Australia and New Zealand. There were twenty-four completed voyages during the year, the report shows, the same number as in 1934. Most of the vessels carried capacity cargoes, both inbound and outbound.

"Notwithstanding 24,701 tons of additional cargo handled with an increase of 20 per cent in operating revenue," the directors state, "the operating expenses show an increase of less than 1 per cent. This may be regarded as a very satisfactory performance, reflecting careful administration and strict economy on the part of all concerned."

Ships now being operated by the Canadian Government include the Canadian Britisher, Canadian Challenger, Canadian Conqueror, Canadian Cruiser, Canadian Highlander, Canadian Leader, Canadian Planter, Canadian Scottish, Canadian Victor, Lady Nelson, Lady Hawkins, Lady Drake, Lady Somers, Lady Rodney, Cavelier, Cathcart, Colborne, Chomedy, Cornwallis and Connector, a total of twenty-one vessels.

SHIP LOST OFF OREGON

Coastguardsmen shot a shoulder-line aboard and removed the crew of four after a strong incoming tide tossed the craft and her $6,000 cargo onto the rocks.

The crew members were William Crone of Requa, Cal., owner and Captain; F. Boydt of Requa, engineer, and J. Miller of Oakland, and Frank Brock of Bandon, sailors.

At low tide late yesterday the battered ship was perched on the rocks and members of the crew walked out and retrieved the ships papers and personal belongings.

If the ship hangs together through another high tide, attempts will be made to salvage feed, sugar and general groceries which were being hauled from San Francisco to Bandon. The bottom was already badly broken.

The Golden West, built at St. Helens, Oregon, in 1923, was a 61.2-foot vessel, with a 100 horsepower gas engine. Its tonnage was seventy-two gross and forty-four net.

TUGBOAT BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE

Port Townsend, March 30.—The Diamond Z., a fifty-five-foot tug used for hauling barges, burned to the water's edge a short distance off shore today but its two occupants, Albert Nagel, captain, and Robert Bardue, mate, escaped onto a barge.

The fire started from motor backfire, Nagel said. A boat put out from shore and took them off the barge when it also caught fire.
